THE PRESIDENT ENDORSED.

Packard Proposes to Fight it Out.

Hayes' Platform Endorsed.

NEW YORK, March 8.—A meeting was held in Wall street to-day to express approval of the policy of President Hayes in regard to civil service reform and pacification of the South; Wm. A. Booth, president. Jacob D. Vermyle, president of the Merchants' Bank, read the resolutions. They state that the policy declared in President Hayes' inaugural, in favor of the permanent pacification of the South, with equal protection to all citizens, of thorough reform in the civil service, and of an early return to specie payments, recommends itself to the country, and is entitled to the fairest trial; that we stand by the President in the exercise of his constitutional right, and that we shall regret any hesitation to confirm the cabinet, including our honored townsman, Wm. M. Evarts, or any disposition to embarrass or obstruct his policy of conciliation and reform, as tending to interrupt and postpone the restoration of the national confidence so essential to the prosperity of all sections. The resolutions were received with applause.

John A. Stewart said nine-tenths of the people, at least of those who were not office-seekers, were in favor of the principles expressed. Senators were apt to obey the will of the people when they once knew it, and he believed they would confirm the nominations for Hayes' cabinet.

John Austin Stevens said: President Hayes has been thwarted by men within the ranks of his own party. It was his conviction that the people were not willing to have the wheels stopped any more at Washington. [Applause.

John Jay spoke briefly in answer to calls: He said the country would decidedly disapprove any attempt to block the wheels of the new government, especially as to the policy of conciliation and reform. He remarked he should preside this evening at a meeting of a Union League club, at which a similar declaration would be adopted.

Geo. T. Hope believed that the country needed just what President Hayes proposed to accomplish. The voice of the people should be heard. It was only fair the President should be allowed to construct his own Cabinet, and the people mean he should have his way. They agree with him in demanding civil service reform, pacification and specie payments.

The resolutions were then adopted by acclamation.

The Herald editorially praises Hayes' cabinet, denounces Blaine, and hopes he will not be bull-dozed by him.

Disappointed.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Times' Washington special says: Blaine is quite disappointed by the failure of his first attempt to lead the Senate. If he had not taken the management of this case from Morton, Kellogg might probably have been sworn in to-day.

It is proper to state the President was informed last night of the letters to which Blaine alluded, and which it is alleged have been written by Evarts and Matthews, and denied any knowledge of them or of having authorized such representations to be made. Doubts are expressed that any such letters were written by Evarts and Matthews. Blaine knew the President had declined responsibility for them, and the men without whom Hayes never could have been President will be sure to regard it with undisguised satisfaction.

Not Antagonistic.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Journal's Washington special says the excitement over Blaine's speech has somewhat subsided, and Blaine himself disclaims antagonism to the administration unless the small Republican remnant in the South is to be crushed out.

The published statement that the President denies having authorized Matthews' and Evarts' letters to Chamberlain, increases the confusion in political circles. It looks now as though all the Cabinet nominations would be confirmed, and hardly a respectable minority will oppose Evarts and Schurz.

Davis Defines his Position.

The Republican Senatorial caucus placed Judge Davis on several committees to-day as a Republican member. It was stated Davis considered himself an Independent Republican, and would in the main vote with the Republicans, which fact causes much angry comment among Democrats.

Conkling took the floor and read a carefully prepared speech in favor of admitting Grover, as he had a prima facie case.

Blaine's Charge.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The whole body of Republican Senators favor the admission of Kellogg; outside of the carpet-bag Senators there is no hearty approval of Blaine's course. It may be said he charged upon the administration like a wild bull before it did any act in regard to Louisiana and South Carolina, and that he evidently hopes to surround Hayes with Radicals by keeping old issues alive.

David M. Key's Letter.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—In the private letter of Key, alluded to in these dispatches last night, Mr. Key said to a personal friend: I am ready to do all I can to restore the confidence of the government to the people of the South. This can only be done by a hearty fraternization of the sections, for which I have labored. If, without requiring of any sacrifice of any personal or political independence, you find that my name can be used for the good of the South in your best judgment, you are at liberty to use it. If I were to become a member of the administration I should not feel at liberty to place myself in opposition to its general policy, but should feel bound to build it up, strengthen it in the hearts of the people, and if the time arrived when I could not heartily co-operate with it, I should resign. If, as I hope and believe, the administration will resolve upon a peaceful and liberal policy toward the people of the South, I would not hesitate to incorporate my fortunes and self with it.

Congratulated.

Key received the following to-night from Nashville:

> I tender my sincere congratulations. Do not fail to accept.
>
> B. F. CHEATHAM.

This is the commander of the famous Cheatham division in Johnston's army.

Republican Senate Caucus.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Republican Senators held a caucus this morning, at which a report of the committees appointed to revise the standing committees was submitted and adopted. The minority gets increased representation, so that instead of three Democrats they will have four places out of nine on each non-political committee with perhaps the exception of one or two committees which are of quasi political character. The Republicans have provided for Senator Davis of Illinois by assigning him to the judiciary committee and committee on revision of laws. The Democratic list is not yet complete, and therefore no election of committees will be possible before to-morrow. The Republican members of the new finance committee will be Morrill, chairman, Ferry, Jones of Nevada, Allison and Dawes.

Tax-Collector Murdered.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Inter-Ocean's New Orleans special says: The temporizing policy bore fruit to-day in the murder of D. A. Webber, State tax-collector, at Bayou Sara, by a gang of unknown assassins. Webber was an active Republican from Feliciana parish.

Packard will Fight.

Gov. Packard said to-night he would accept no compromise. He was legally elected governor, and intends to be governor. He will not leave the State house without a fight. The feeling of disgust at the weakness of certain Northern Republicans is growing into a defiant attitude, the culmination of which will be dangerous.

Asked to Resign.

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—The Republican State central committee to-day unanimously passed a resolution calling on Pinchback to resign as president of the committee and member of the national committee before March 17.

Major Burke returned to-day from Washington. He has assurances that lead him to believe Nicholls will be undisturbed.

Reward Offered.

NEW ORLEANS, March 7.—Gov. Nicholls issued a proclamation offering a reward of $5,000 for the apprehension and conviction of the murderer of Webber, killed at Bayou Sara today. He expresses a determination to suppress violence and punish crime.

Quite Easy.

The Herald's Washington special says: The President, according to the reports of his friends, seems to be quite easy in his mind. He believes himself right, and thinks he will not fail of support somewhere. He has an admirable temper, and does not scare or worry people who have to come near him. They say they are convinced he means what he says. Republicans who are opposed to his course, while no less opposed, are beginning to think of other tactics than mere opposition. They cry out for delay.

Hurt at his Waning Power.

Blaine, while riding out with some friends, remarked, with considerable feeling, he had not been consulted at all in regard to parties selected for positions in the cabinet. He added, with marked emphasis, that he did not seem to have any more influence in the premises than he had on the floor of the Senate.

What Party Does he Belong to?

Robt. Ingersoll remarked to-night, while conversing with some friends, in a suggestive and rollicking way: "What party do I belong to now, I should like to know?"

Shows His Backbone.

The World's Washington special says: The extraordinary action of the Senate to-day in deferring confirmation of the new Cabinet is variously discussed. The President expressed great astonishment. He had not anticipated unanimous approval of the selection, but at the same time he thought they met the approval of the greater portion of the Senate. He added, he should adhere to the nominations as they had been made, and the Senate could preserve its course in the matter. That had he laid down the policy he intended to pursue, he should carry it out. If the new Cabinet is not confirmed this week, he said he should proceed in co-operation with the old Cabinet and issue orders for the withdrawal of the troops from the Southern States. If Evarts is unconfirmed, he will probably get the mission to England. If confirmed, Stoughton expects it, though others say Frelinghuysen, who was so useful on the Electoral Commission.

Gen. Dix's Letter.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Gen. Dix in resigning the chairmanship of the Union Veterans national committee, has written a letter in which he says: To the administration of President Hayes we look for thorough reformation of the abuses into which the government has fallen, and a firm resistance to the encroachment of those whose province it is under the constitution to advise and consent to appointments to public trust, upon the prerogative of nomination, which the same instrument has confided exclusively to him, and for imposing restraints upon the unseemly pursuit of office and perversion of official patronage to personal and party purposes. Also for a just and impartial policy in regard to all nations and classes; a policy which shall heal the wounds left by past dissensions, and elevate his administration above the plane of party politics.

Interviews with the President.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Wells and Anderson and Marshal Pitkin, of Louisiana had interviews with the President, and were informed their business would receive as early consideration as public interests would permit.

The President has made his first appointment, outside of cabinet nominations, that of Wm. Stone to the U. S. attorneyship of South Carolina.

There was a conference in the library at the executive mansion between the President and Evarts, Schurz and Devens. It appears to have been a very serious meeting, and the intimations are that the visitors desired to relieve the President from any embarrassment by reason of their selection for cabinet positions; but it is understood the President is determined concerning cabinet appointments and civil service reform, and Southern matters generally. The old cabinet will attend the President to-morrow and the usual council will be held.

Secretary Chandler and Postmaster General Tyner were both in consultation with the President to-day, the latter concerning some important business regarding postal service.

Col. H. C. Corbin, of the Twenty-fourth Infantry, will be detailed for duty at the White House in a similar relation to the President as Gen. Babcock had to President Grant.

Among the visitors to-day were a multitude of ladies, many of whom paid their respects to Mrs. Hayes.

Can They be Harmonized?

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Press opinions on the Cabinet chosen by President Hayes are generally favorable. The Inter-Ocean, while doubting the feasibility of retaining Schurz, acknowledges his great ability, and favors allowing the President to call about him his own advisers, and deprecates the action of the Senate yesterday. Sherman, Thompson, McCrary, and perhaps Devens, stand for the more pronounced element of republicanism, while Schurz and Key represent the liberal and conservative element, and Evarts occupies the half way ground. It is not a body promising great unanimity of thought, but has plenty of brains and ought to be tried until the President at least is satisfied that he has committed an error in assembling men of antagonistic views as his confidential advisers.

Speculations on the Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Last night's outlook regarding the confirmation of Cabinet appointments has not materially changed today, except perhaps in the case of Schurz, against whom opposition seems to be gaining some additional strength. Votes against confirming Sherman as Secretary of the Treasury were cast by Democrats, in evidence of their disapprobation of his extreme views and recent radical utterances concerning Southern affairs. Some Democrats advocate opposition to Evarts' confirmation on similar grounds, and also charge that he was a party to the alleged intrigues by which Democratic support was obtained for the electoral act under false pretenses or misleading assurances. Schurz' nomination encounters much more opposition among Republicans than that of Evarts, or even that of Key. The grounds of opposition are not only political but bitterly personal, as he made many enemies while in the Senate by his pronounced independence of party ties and his frequently exercised powers of sarcasm. His confirmation will also be opposed by some Republicans from a dispassionate belief that he does not possess business experience and administrative ability enough for a proper discharge of the multifarious duties of Secretary of the Interior. There seems to be no doubt that the Democrats will all vote for Key, and that his confirmation is therefore certain. The prevailing opinion to-night is that Evarts will be confirmed by a considerable majority. The fate of Schurz' nomination is still an uncertain matter, but unless the Democrats in a body refrain from voting, the chances appear now to favor his confirmation. Sargent to-day made the motion for Sherman's confirmation, and announced himself strongly in favor of confirming all the rest of Hayes' Cabinet appointments immediately. Bogy also heartily approves all of them.

Grover will Demand Investigation.

Sargent withdrew his motion for investigation of the charges against Governor Grover upon assurance by Bayard that Grover will himself further offer a resolution for their thorough investigation. Grover's admission to a seat in the Senate was in accordance with a custom and manifestly proper, as his credentials were found regular in form, and the seat is not claimed by any contestant.

French and Hawaiian Missions.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Tribune's Washington special says: Gen. Noyes, of Ohio, will have the French mission; Gen. J. M. Comby that to Hawaii.

"Unconfirmed and Baseless" Rumor.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Tribune's Washington special says an unconfirmed and baseless rumor prevailed to-night that Schurz would refuse to accept a cabinet position. Senator Cameron has been endeavoring to create fictitious opposition among Democrats to the confirmation of Hayes' cabinet, but has met with no success, and to-day voted himself for Sherman.

A Senator Sick.

Senator Angus Cameron of Wisconsin, is dangerously ill to-night with inflammation of the bowels.

Gen. Devens Visits the President.

Gen. Devens arrived from Boston to-day and had a very satisfactory talk with the President.

An Appointment for Frederick Douglass.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Frederick Douglass will undoubtedly be appointed marshal of the District of Columbia in a few days.

The President Stands Firm.

The President is stated to be firm against the tremendous pressure to induce him to abandon his nominations, and his friends say should the Senate refuse to confirm the nominations he would notify them he had no further communication for them, which would be practically proroguing the Senate. He would then have the right to make ad interim appointments and run his own matters without the consent of the Senate. The Senate now has only a slim Republican majority—38 Republicans, 33 Democrats and Judge Davis, Independent.

Sherman Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Senate confirmed Sherman.

Resignation of Gen. Dix—Good Advice.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Gen. John A. Dix has resigned the chairmanship of the Grand Army of the Republic, and issued an address to the veteran soldiers and sailors of the United States, urging them to maintain the organization, congratulating them upon the election of Hayes and Wheeler, and calling upon all members to give a hearty support to the policy of the civil service reform and conciliation so forcibly expressed in the inaugural address of the President.

Rhode Island Republican Convention.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 8.—Albert C. Howard was nominated for lieutenant-governor, and the present incumbents renominated for Secretary of State, attorney-general and treasurer.

PRESS COMMENTS.

The Chicago Press.

CHICAGO, March 7.—The Times says: In these selections the President has given the country the first distinct intimation that he intends to go back on the damnable policy of the Grant regime, relegating the Mortons, Blaines, Chandlers and Camerons to the rear, and bringing forward the liberal, independent element. This means music, it means a smash-up of old party combinations that will benefit the country. The Times is satisfied with the prospects.

The Tribune says the cabinet will give general satisfaction to the country at large, and is worthier than Grant's eight years ago. Its composition attests the President's firm intention to carry out the conservative and conciliatory policy, and the opposition to Schurz' confirmation will be personal. He is an abler, wiser, and honester man than any who will oppose him.

Any opposition to Key on the part of the Democrats will be to a certain extent notice that the Southern people are not inclined to meet President Hayes' disposition toward them in the proper spirit, and they will be the sufferers. The distribution of the various sections is wise and fit.

CHICAGO, March 7.—The Post says: We are unwilling to believe any considerable number of Republican Senators will follow the tripartite associates in their factious course, but if they do, public opinion, which they defy, ought to be made plain. The President is doing his duty. Now let the country do its duty. He ought to be promptly and energetically supported by the people by all the means by which they made their well-known support so emphatic, that the confirmation of his cabinet appointments shall be made something more than a party matter, so that conservative Democrats in the Senate, as well as conservative Republicans, shall be moved to prompt acquiescence in the President's wise and statesmanlike policy.

Must Stand Firm.

CHICAGO, March 7.—The Times editorially says: Hayes must let the country know whether he is to be the passive tool of the evil characters that have hitherto led the Administration party, or the positive and unflinching leader of a new Administration policy which the more liberal of his supporters have claimed that he would be. Whether he has the courage to fight and the strength to overthrow the Blaine-Morton gang or not, he must do so, or his Administration will utterly fail. From this alternative he can find no way of escape.

Inter-Ocean Items.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says: Blaine has again given voice to the prophesied mutiny in the Republican ranks to-day. What following he will have will appear when the first vote is taken in the Senate. It is known that Cameron of Pennsylvania, Conkling, Anthony, Sargent and Jones stand with him and carry great influence.

Evarts' nomination will be under consideration by a committee consisting of Simon Cameron, Morton, Hamlin, Howe, Conkling and three Democrats. All these, except Morton, disapprove of Evarts. Sherman's name will go to the committee, but will meet with no opposition, nor will the names of any other except Schurz.

Maj. Bickham, of the Dayton journal, who dined with Hayes to-night, is authority for the statement that Hayes never authorized Matthews and Evarts to make a bargain with South Carolina, the Democrats or any other. Some disclaimers is said to have been given other parties.

Departure from Traditional Usages.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Tribune says the refusal of the Senate to promptly confirm the cabinet appointments of Hayes was a departure from the traditional usage and that it is accounted for on the supposition that several of the Senators took this method of manifesting their resentment of the President's disregard of their respective wishes and claims in the selection of his cabinet, and the determination to form his own administration. It is not believed this manifestation of spite will defeat the confirmation of the cabinet selections, but if such should be the temper of the Senate, President Hayes would still be able to have his chosen advisers in spite of the opposition of the Senate, by simply giving notice that he has no further business with that body and thus putting an end to the extra session.

St. Louis Press.

ST. LOUIS, March 7.—The Globe-Democrat says the disproportionate space occupied in the President's inaugural by the Southern question shows the President fully alive to its importance. It shows his deep interest in the prosperity of the South, and an intelligent understanding of the difficulties of the situation and the needs of the people.

The Republican declares it has little weight, since he obtained his elevated position by such questionable means. The inaugural lacks definiteness like his letter of acceptance. This is especially true of the treatment of the Southern question. There is much platitude, but not one clear declaration.

The Times denounces the President and his inaugural. Says if he lives up to his words he will betray the people who put him where he is. Chandler, Morton & Company discover too late that the creature of their making refuses to divide fairly.

The New Orleans Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—The Picayune says: Such are Hayes' principles, whether or not his practice will conform to them the future alone can determine. The first practical step will be the formation of his cabinet. If popular surmise should prove correct, the South has no longer to fear the marplot of Federal interference.

The Times says: It is a creditable state paper and carries the impression of a broad and intelligent grasp of subjects commented on. Its tone is in every respect commendable. The reader will see that the author at least does not seem to speak with two tongues. It is further apparent he is capable of conserving a statesmanlike policy and expressing it in apt terms, and the conservative position assumed is marked by a dignity and independence which show the ideas presented are an index of policy. It is auspicious and, we have no doubt will satisfy the best elements of society in all sections of the country. Whether the deeds of the new administration will correspond to the pleasant words of the inaugural remains to be seen.

The Democrat says: It is the first statesmanlike utterance that has come from the Republican party since the close of the war. If he shall have firmness and courage to carry out the broad and Catholic views and purposes expressed in the document, he will disarm much opposition to his administration, greatly reduce the difficulties of his position and confer a real benefit upon the country.

The Bee says: Without passing suddenly from our extreme incredulity to something resembling confidence, we say that we have been favorably impressed by the inaugural speech of Hayes. The new made President has been more explicit than the Southern representatives could have expected. Under the circumstances the policy of pacification is clearly defined.

South Carolina Satisfied.

COLUMBIA, March 6.—The inaugural address of President Hayes meets with the most cordial approval here. Its expressions regarding the Southern policy are regarded as certain indications of the recognition of the Hampton government, consequently an era of peace and prosperity is now confidently expected. The troops will be withdrawn from the State house in the next few days.

The demise of Chief Justice Moses leaves the election of his successor with the new legislature, which will be convened by Hampton.

Regarded as Good.

MEMPHIS, March 8.—Business men here regard Hayes' cabinet a remarkably good one and indicative of prosperity for the whole country.

President Hayes' Support.

MILWAUKEE, March 8.—The three Republican papers here, the Sentinel, Wisconsin and Germania, and the Herald an independent German daily, warmly approve President Hayes' selection of cabinet officers and endorse his Southern policy. The Sentinel, after complimenting Blaine, Morton and other Republican Senators for their courage in the past, says if they oppose too much the popular sentiment that has been awakened by the President's inaugural, they are in danger of being crushed beneath it.

How it is Received in the South.

MEMPHIS, March 8.—The Avalanche regards the cabinet as strong and evincing the determination of the President to conciliate the South.

The Appeal criticises Key for desertion of his party.

Sensible Talk from the Courier-Journal.

LOUISVILLE, March 8.—The Courier-Journal says: In the conflict which the blood-thirsty radical leaders have begun against Hayes because of his Southern policy, Democratic Senators should unhesitatingly give all their moral support to Hayes so long as he maintains his present ground. Other city papers warmly endorse the appointments.

SOME REMARKABLE COURT RECORDS.

HILLSBORO, March 9, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The following is a true copy of a petition presented by the Road Supervisor of Road District No. 26, in Wapato Precinct, at the March term of the County Court for 1877, and the order thereon, the latter yet in pencil.

To the Honorable, The County Court of Washington County, Oregon.

Your petitioner undersigned, a loyal and law-abiding citizen of your county, begs leave to show unto your honors the following state of facts:

That heretofore, at the January term of your court, 1877, without solicitation on my part, or the wire-pulling of any devoted friends, your honorable body appointed me to the honorable and responsible position of Supervisor of Road District No. 26 in said county. (I should have been glad to add in that connection—honorable and profitable position, but my predecessor informs me that the sum total of the emoluments of the office consists in honors, and the abuse of his neighbors.)

Your honorable body will therefore take notice that your humble servant proposes to discharge the duties of this said office in such a way as to reflect credit on your honors, and justify the wisdom of your appointment, and also to so "mend the ways" of this part of the Lord's moral vineyard as will save oceans and oceans of profanity expended by both man and beast in getting through that "Slough of Despond," known as the lane between the Tualatin river and the Davis school house.

If your honors will permit, I will express it as my firm conviction, that if John Bunyan's Christian had struck that lane during an Oregon winter, he would never have reached the pearly gates or written the "Pilgrim's Progress." Now to make a long story short, and come down to business, gentlemen, that aforesaid lane must be made a decent, passable highway, and it must be plowed, scraped and thrown up, and cross layed for three-fourths of a mile, nearly, and that the district labor can do; but we can no more finish the job without nine thousand feet of plank than the Israelites would make good merchantable brick for old Pharo without straw. Do you observe the point?—nine thousand feet of plank, gentlemen. The plank is needed to make several hundred feet of bridging at different points on this lane.

"But seeing," as the apostle said, "that I have written you so long a letter," I hope it may receive your prayerful consideration, for Wapato is in earnest about this said lane, and Wapato, like Cæsar, can stand against the world on an election day or on a wolf hunt. And as in duty bound your humble servant will ever pray.

—— SUPERVISOR.

ORDER OF THE COURT.

In the County Commissioners' Court for Washington county, Oregon.

WHEREAS, It appearing by an epistle from the lord high captain sojourning in the and of the Wapatoes and troublesome lanes, that the inhabitants thereof travail and will not be comforted, and the hosts of Cæsar—brave men—"stick in the mud" and the wolf howleth upon their pinnacle and strangers carry away the soil on the sole of the foot whereon groweth the festive wapatoe; and further, the importunities of the "prodigal son" appear insignificant to the present epistle; and the court further realizes that it is as natural for supervisors to ask for plank as it was for Judas Iscariot to carry his Savior's bag. Yet "lest this woman should weary us by her continued importunities," it is adjuged by the Commissioners' Court that they see the point—that is, 9,000 feet of plank—and that an order be drawn for the same.

SENATE EXTRA SESSION.

Senator [illegible] from Oregon Sworn In.

Sherman Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, March 7.

After Bayard's substitute, Bayard said his idea in referring Kellogg's credentials to the electoral committee was following a precedent. Kellogg's credentials did not create a prima facie case because Packard, who was not Governor de jure or de facto, signed them. On the contrary, Nicholls had the legal legislature in accord with him, controlling the whole State except about an acre where stood Packard's hotel—the State House. The outgoing administration had honestly, but tardily, admitted the futility of using the military to uphold such a Government. He quoted from President Grant's telegram to Packard on the subject. Ex-President Grant was an attentive listener to these remarks. He alluded to the speech of Edmunds in 1875, when he opposed the admission of Pinchback on the ground that the returning board was illegal, and replying to Blaine he contended the decision of the electoral commission had no binding effect on the Senate. Bayard said Blaine had yesterday challenged with much abruptness the position of the President, who seems to recognize the true condition of affairs in Louisiana, and Bayard said these words of Hayes, in his inaugural, were wise. The peace of Louisiana was the peace of all, and her destruction was the destruction of all. The overthrow of Nicholls and the recognition of Packard would shock the people of Louisiana and thrill everybody in the land. He recognized in Blaine's remarks, yesterday, the same cry for sectional aggression that has been heard for years past. It fell on his ear like a fire bell at midnight.

Blaine argued, the same returning board that returned Hayes and Wheeler returned the Packard government and the legislature which elected Kellogg Senator. He alluded to Bayard's partisan votes on all test questions in the commission.

Mitchell said he understood before he came into the Senate this morning that Hamlin objected to swearing in Grover, the senator elect from Oregon. He (Mitchell) had several petitions from citizens of Oregon objecting to Grover, and therefore presented them to the Senate. It was a duty not sought by him and was not one of the most pleasant of his life, but it had been imposed upon him by his constituents, and he could not shrink from it. Petitions against seating Grover were then read. The charge that he procured his election by bribery and the corrupt use of money; that he unlawfully and corruptly issued a certificate of election to Cronin, and falsely testified before the Senate committee on elections to sustain his act.

Wallace submitted a resolution that the credentials of L. F. Grover, Senator from the State of Oregon, be taken from the table and he be sworn in.

Vice President—That can only be by unanimous consent.

Morton—There is another matter pending.

Sargent moved the petition be printed, but Davis objected.

The question being on the substitute of Bayard on the original resolution of Blaine in the case of Kellogg, was then agreed to; yeas, 26; nays, 20.

Blaine then,—alluding to Bayard's remarks of his (Blaine's) words sounding like fire bells,—said Bayard and himself represented different schools of politics. We come from different sections. We have represented different ideas before the war, and during the war, and since the war, wholly and entirely different. For myself, as long as I may be entrusted with a seat on this floor, whoever else shall halt or grow weak, in maintaining so long as I have strength I will stand for Southern Union men of both colors, and when I cease to do that before any presence North or South, in official bodies or before public assemblies may my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth and my right hand forget its cunning.

Morton said he supposed the question before the Senate was a question of law; and law was about the only thing which he had not heard discussed. The Senator from Delaware (Bayard) [illegible] Morton [illegible] the record in the case of Kellogg, and [illegible] the constitution of Louisiana to show it was the duty of the Legislature to canvass for Governor and Lieutenant Governor. He then read [illegible] law prescribing the duties of the returning board, and argued there was a quorum of the Legislature present when the votes for Governor and Lieutenant Governor were canvassed, and it was declared Packard had 8,000 majority. He then referred to the action of the Legislature in electing Kellogg and said he received a majority of all the votes. He submitted that the record as presented made the chain of title good. Further argument was superfluous. Regarding the general character of the remarks submitted by Bayard, there is constant talk of fraud. It is charged that the people of Louisiana, by a large majority voted for Nicholls and Tilden, but were defrauded out of their votes, and these charges are constantly made here and elsewhere. The time has come to meet that charge. We intend to roll back evidence upon the record that does hurt it, back to the men where it is upon record and indisputable that the majority for Tilden and Nicholls in Louisiana is false and fraudulent, and that it was obtained by murder and every species of violence and intimidation. In talking about fraud these crimes are constantly ignored. Of the hundreds and thousands of men who have been slain in Louisiana for political purposes in the last few years no mention is made; of the murders, whippings, tortures and inhuman treatment that so largely prevailed during the late canvass,—all that is ignored, and the fruits of these crimes treated as real honest property which they have a right to protect and enjoy. What was done down there is, we claim, and as the evidence shows abundantly, simply under the laws of Louisiana, to deprive them of the fruits of murder and crime; to give expression to the honest vote and to the honest majority of the people of Louisiana. Constant reference is made to the introduction of the army as if it was a crime, while no reference is made to the causes which brought the army into the State. The returning board of Louisiana has been subject to constant denunciation, even the very existence of the board is treated as a crime. Mr. President, there is a returning board in every State of this Union of some character. Every State designates some officers who are deputed by law to count votes. In my State there are all the State officers; in other States a single officer; in others two officers. In some States, like Nebraska, the legislature counts the votes. But there must be some body, some tribunal or authority, in every State to count the votes. In most States these returning boards have only ministerial powers. They have no discretionary or judicial power. They have no power to take evidence and throw out votes.

Morrill said he voted for the substitute, although he believed Kellogg was fairly entitled to his seat. The Louisiana committee has not yet reported to the Senate, and the matter was of sufficient importance to be investigated by a committee. He thought also the Oregon case was worthy of investigation, and would vote to refer that case to a committee.

The question being on the original resolution of Blaine as amended by the substitute of Bayard, it was agreed to—yeas 41, nays 21.

At 2:20 a message was received from the President.

Morton moved an executive session.

Bayard requested the Senator to withdraw the motion, that he might offer a resolution to have General Morgan, Senator elect from Alabama, sworn in.

Morton declined.

Motion for executive session was rejected—yeas 30, nays 3.

Bayard then submitted a resolution that the credentials of Morgan be taken from the table and he be sworn in.

Spencer said he desired to speak upon this resolution, but was not able to go on to-day.

Several Senators insisted he should go on.

After a brief discussion Morrill renewed the motion for executive session and it was agreed to.

The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of executive business, and when the doors opened the Senate adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 8.

The motion to refer the credentials of Morgan from Alabama to the elections committee was lost, and the resolution that he be sworn in adopted unanimously, and Morgan was sworn in.

Wallace called up the motion to seat Grover. After a lengthy discussion on it was agreed to, and L. F. Grover, Senator from Oregon, was administered the oath by Vice President Wheeler.

Sargent submitted the following substitute:

WHEREAS, Under the constitution and laws and practice of the Senate, Lafayette Grover, claiming to be a Senator from the State of Oregon, his credentials being regular and in due form, and there being no contestant for the seat, is entitled to admission to a seat in this body on the prima facie case presented by such credentials, notwithstanding the objections contained in the petition of citizens of the State of Oregon against his admission; therefore,

Resolved, That the credentials of Lafayette Grover be taken from the table and the oath of office be administered to him.

Resolved further, That the petitions of citizens of Oregon containing charges against Lafayette Grover lie on the table until the committee on privileges and elections is organized, when they shall be referred to such committee, together with the credentials, with instructions to investigate such charges and report as to their truth or falsity.

Wallace accepted the substitute.

Conkling moved to amend by inserting in the preamble, after the words "no contestant for the seat" as follows: "And there being in said State but one body claiming to be the Legislature, and but one person claiming to be Governor, and there being no doubt or dispute as to the existence of one legal rightful Governor."

The amendment was accepted by Sargent.

Conkling said he had heard it affirmed that the same reason which entitled Grover to be seated upon a prima facie case entitled Kellogg to be seated on a prima facie case, yesterday. If that position was sound in law and founded in truth, it proved conclusively the caprice of those who voted to refer his credentials yesterday. He declared there was no analogy between the cases. The Oregon case was one in which there was one ascertained constitutional Legislature; it was a case in which there was one ascertained and acknowledged Governor, because the constitution did not acknowledge a dual Executive in any State. In the case of Grover there was a prima facie case, and the claimant was entitled to his seat. Afterwards an investigation could be made as to alleged vice lying beyond the certificate. In Louisiana two rival bodies, hotly contesting and restrained from violence and tumult by the arm of power, had been asserting, each against the other, that it was the lawful Legislature. It was equally notorious the two Governors had been sworn in, and each was insisting that he was the lawful Governor, exercising the prerogatives and attributes of Executive of the State. The essential question concerning Louisiana was whether there was a legal Legislature and lawful Governor. The Senate must decide that. The Senate could not have decided it yesterday without hearing a word of the testimony which the Senate Committee had taken. The late illustrious Chief Magistrate could not after three months' examination decide that Packard was Governor or that his legislature was legal. He thought, therefore, proper that testimony be heard. The Senate was not bound by the decision of the Electoral Tribunal which had decided that it was constitutionally debarred from going behind the returns. The Senate was bound by no such provision, but was compelled to inquire into the legality of the electing body. This question has some significance, too, in the light of events swiftly passing before us. Addressing the Vice President, he said: "The other day you were on the eastern portico of the Capitol, overlooking an immense concourse of people. You saw the oath of office administered to the chief magistrate of the republic in which, under the forms and substance of law, all parties and all factions, whatever their convictions may be, peacefully acquiesced, assuming to be endowed with the power of chief magistrate, he uttered to his countrymen something of the principles, purposes, and inspirations which would actuate his administration."

Conkling then quoted from the inaugural regarding Southern affairs, and resuming his remarks, said: "Can it be the chief magistrate was sincere in those words, does not design, with a conscientious aim at the right, to find out, to ascertain to declare who in truth, on the 7th of November last, was chosen Governor of Louisiana? Who in truth of the contestants in the various legislative districts were entitled to sit and constitute the legislature? And if the chief magistrate, [illegible] with his great duties, does mean, as we are bound to believe he means, by modes provided in the constitution and law to ascertain the very truth of the election in Louisiana, shall it be said that on the threshold of his administration the Senate in order to be [illegible] and allow Grover, as Senator from Oregon, to be sworn in must proceed without any [illegible] of the committee to close the door in the face of the President or leave him, if his judgment so direct him to do it, to attempt to recognize one State government although the Senate had [illegible] another, or to bow before [illegible] the Senate, made without investigation, and [illegible] by its judgment no matter how [illegible] judgment it might be. In conclusion, [illegible] again alluded to the Louisiana [illegible] thought it was [illegible] serious issue in that case [illegible]

Morton [illegible] a prima facie case, and [illegible] was regular on its face [illegible] certificate, signed by the Governor and therefore had a prima facie case which was not invalidated because there was another body in the State pretending to be the legislature, or another person [illegible] pretending to be Governor. [illegible] the Packard government [illegible] do so. He had to [illegible] force of the argument [illegible] late President could not be brought [illegible] the Senate.

Thurman said the charges against Grover in the petition were as vague as it was possible for language to make them, [illegible]

[illegible]

Saulsbury said it had been stated that [illegible] of New Orleans were [illegible] The Packard government was a usurpation. Packard had [illegible] afraid to show himself [illegible] occupied as a State house [illegible] sustained by Federal power. [illegible] to impose upon the people of that State [illegible] barricaded in his hotel [illegible] sovereign State. [illegible] (Saulsbury) was not [illegible] did not believe he was [illegible] been elected with the [illegible] glad to see the [illegible] upon him by his oath. He was surprised at the attempt made on the floor of the Senate to embarrass the incoming administration, and the announcement that its policy must not be pursued. He trusted the President would defeat the appeals of partisans, and obey the high behests of a [illegible]

Howe said if the people of New Orleans were law-abiding, why should Packard be afraid to show himself before them. It had been said that he claimed an office to which he was not entitled. The same thing had been said about the President of the United States, and yet in this law-abiding city that the President was not afraid to show himself. This fact seemed to him (Howe) to distinguish the character of the people of Washington from the character of the people of New Orleans.

Blaine sent to the clerk's desk the following letter to himself:

WASHINGTON, (D. C.) March 8.

HON. JAMES G. BLAINE—Sir:—Hon. William M. Evarts begs me to say to you that he did not endorse the letter of Stanley Matthews to Governor Chamberlain, to the extent implied by the telegram of Governor Chamberlain to me. That letter was presented to him by Haskell of South Carolina, and he wrote upon it substantially as follows: That he had read the foregoing letter, that he [illegible] the troubles in South Carolina [illegible] desired to hear from Governor Chamberlain upon the subject. Very respectfully, D. T. CORBIN.

Also the following telegram was received by him to-day:

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.

Senator Bayard is mistaken. In every parish outside the city, except in the five bull-dozed parishes, in one of which our tax collector has just been murdered, my government is recognized, except by a few pretended Nichols officials.

S. B. PACKARD.

Thurman asked if he would not give the Senate the Stanley Matthews letter.

Blaine said he would be glad to do it if he had it, but it was in Democratic hands. It was procured by Haskell, who is chairman of the Democratic committee. It is understood a similar letter had been sent to New Orleans first.

The resolutions and preamble submitted by Sargent in the case of Grover were agreed to without division.

Bayard said he was authorized to state that [illegible] Grover [illegible] should be admitted, calling for the [illegible] investigation of all charges against him.

Sargent then withdrew the second resolution.

Grover was then escorted to the desk of the presiding officer by Bogy and the oath administered.

Thurman said at a former session of the Senate the credentials of J. Eustis, claiming to be a Senator from the State of Louisiana, were referred to the committee on elections. The committee reported against the right of Eustis to a seat, on the ground that the vacancy had been filled by the election of Pinchback. Subsequently it was decided that Pinchback had not been elected. He therefore submitted a resolution that the credentials of Eustis be taken from the table and referred to the committee on elections; laid over until to-morrow.

The Senate then went into executive session, and, when the doors reopened, adjourned.

IN EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Immediately after Senate went into executive session this afternoon a motion was made to bring before the Senate for action the nomination of Sherman for Secretary of the Treasury. Objections being interposed on the ground that the nomination had been ordered to be referred to the finance committee and that it could not now be acted upon without unanimous consent, the Vice President decided the rules applicable to committees, etc., were not in force, as no committees were in existence. After considerable discussion the Vice President was sustained. The question was then taken on confirmation of Sherman's nomination and it was confirmed by a solid vote of Republican Senators against 24 votes in the negative by Democratic members. Several Democratic Senators refrained from voting. No attempt was made to confirm any other cabinet nominees.

Blaine quoted from the remarks of Key while he was in the Senate, in regard to case of the Oregon elector, to the effect that he regarded the action of the Governor of Oregon as wrong, but it was not more reprehensible than the action of the returning boards of Louisiana and Florida, and that he (Key) supported Tilden and Hendricks, and believed them to have been honestly elected.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 9, 1877.

THE CABINET.

President Hayes selection of Cabinet ministers is by no means satisfactory to the machine men. They are disappointed and chagrined, just as was anticipated. But the probabilities are that the opposition will fail utterly, and the nominees be confirmed, though it is manifest a fierce struggle is about to take place between the Reform Republicans and the machine politicians of the party. Good nerve for a week will bring victory to Hayes and honest administration. We believe the President possesses the nerve, and therefore that he will win.

Most of the persons named for Cabinet positions are of national reputation, and of whose history there is hardly a necessity for anything to be written about them. A brief sketch of each of them however, is not out of place, and we present such a sketch, availing ourselves of the labors of the editor of the Standard, except as to Mr. Devens, the person designated for Attorney-General:

Wm. Maxwell Evarts, LL. D., Secretary of State, is a son of Jeremiah Evarts. He is an eminent lawyer, and was born in Boston in February, 1818; graduated at Yale College in 1837; studied law at Cambridge law school, and commenced the practice of his profession in New York City about 1840. He has been an active but conservative Republican, and took strong ground in 1874 against the unconstitutional military interference in Louisiana. He was principal counsel for President Johnson in his impeachment trial, in 1868, and was appointed Attorney General in the same year. Mr. Evarts is an able statesman, and we hope much for the liberty of the people from his counsels. The office he holds is considered the head of the Cabinet.

John Sherman, Secretary of the Treasury, was born in Lancaster, Ohio, May 10, 1823; received a good education; was admitted to the bar in 1844; was delegate to Whig conventions in 1848 and 1852; was elected to Congress from Ohio in 1854, for the 34th Congress, and was also in 35th and 36th Congresses. He was, during the last term, a candidate for Speaker of the House, and only lacked one or two votes of election. He was appointed chairman of committee on ways and means. In 1860 he was elected to the 37th Congress, and in 1861, on resignation of Senator Chase, he was chosen U. S. Senator for term ending 1867. He was chairman of agricultural and and finance committees, and member of the Pacific railroad and judiciary committee. In 1866 he was re-elected, and again in 1873. He is a man of considerable ability and a warm friend of the inaugurated.

Richard M. Thompson, Secretary of the Navy, was born in Culpepper county, Virginia, June 9, 1809. He received a good English and classical education. Before he was of age he went to the wilds of Kentucky, and in 183_ settled in Louisville in that State, where he became a clerk in an extensive mercantile house. He tired of that, and removed to Lawrence county, Indiana, where he taught school for a few months. He tired again of that, and commenced merchandising and studying law at the same time. He was admitted to the bar in 1834, and almost immediately afterwards was elected to the Indiana legislature. He was re-elected in 1835; went to the State Senate in 1836, where he remained two years, during part of which time he was President pro tem of that body and acting Lieutenant Governor. He was a Presidential elector in 1840,—voting for Harrison; elected to Congress in 1841 for the term ending 1843; was elected Presidential elector in 1844; was chosen to Congress again in 1847, and in 1849 declined a re-election. President Taylor offered him the place of Charge d'Affairs to Austria, but he declined. President Fillmore offered him the recordership of General Land Office, and he declined that also. In 1864 he was again elected Presidential elector.

David McKendell Key, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, was born in Greene county of that State, June 27, 1824. His parents moved to Monroe county in 1826, where he was raised on a farm. Graduated at Hiwassee College in 1850. He was admitted to the bar in 1853, and practised in Chattanooga; he was Presidential elector on the Buchanan and Breckinridge ticket in 1856, and the Breckinridge and Lane ticket in 1860. Entered the Confederate army in 1861, and served through the war as Lieutenant-Colonel of 43d Tennessee Infantry; was a member of the State Constitutional Convention in 1870; elected Chancellor of Third Chancery District same year and appointed U. S. Senator by a Democratic Governor in 1875 to fill vacancy caused by the death of Andrew Johnson. He took his seat Dec. 6, 1875. When the legislature met J. E. Bailey was elected to fill the unexpired term. Key has taken a conservative course in the Senate.

Carl Schurz (Shoorts) is a native of Liblar, near Cologne, in Germany; was in the revolution of 1848; fled first to Switzerland; thence to Paris; thence to London; from thence he came to America in July, 1852. He stayed three years in Philadelphia; thence went to Madison, Wisconsin. In 1856 participated in the Presidential campaign; made his first English oration in the Douglas-Lincoln contest for the Senate in 1858; practiced law at Milwaukie; went on a lecturing tour in 1859-'60; was in Republican national convention in 1860 and favored Mr. Lincoln, who appointed him minister to Spain. He resigned that office in 1861 and joined the Union army as brigadier-general; he rose to be a major-general, and for a short while commanded the 11th army corps at Gettysburg. He was appointed at the close of the war a commissioner to examine and report the condition of the Southern States and the Freedman's Bureau. His report was distasteful to Andrew Johnson. He was elected to the U. S. Senate in 1869. He advocated Grant in 1868, Greeley in 1872 and Hayes in 1876. He has been very much of a newspaper man but is chiefly known as an orator and politician.

George W. McCrary, Secretary of War, was born near Evansville, Indiana, August 29, 1835; his parents removed with him to Iowa Territory in 1836; he was educated in the public school and academy; was admitted to the bar at Keokuk, Iowa, in 1856; elected to State legislature in 1857, and to the State Senate in 1861 for four years; practiced his profession till 1868, when he was elected to the Forty-First Congress; was re-elected to the Forty-Second, Forty-Third and Forty-Fourth Congresses, but was succeeded by another Republican in the Forty-Fifth. He received, in 1874, 11,384 votes over 9,621 for his Democratic opponent, Leroy G. Palmer.

The nominee for Attorney General, Charles Devens, Jr., of Massachusetts, is and always has been, a Democrat. He was born at Charlestown, Mass., April 4, 1820; was graduated from Harvard University in 1838, and subsequently from Cambridge law school; was a State Senator in 1848, and U. S. Marshal for Massachusetts from 1849 to 1853. In 1854 he resumed the practice of the law at Worcester, Mass., and was so engaged at the breaking out of the war. He was chosen major of a rifle battalion April 16, 1861, and was subsequently appointed colonel of the 15th Massachusetts Infantry, one of the best fighting regiments that went from that State. He commanded at Ball's Bluff, before and after the death of Baker. He was promoted to the rank of Brigadier-General April 15th, 1862, was in the battles of Williamsburg and Fair Oaks (in the latter of which he was wounded), and was also at South Mountain and Antietam. He took part in all the subsequent campaigns of the Army of the Potomac, and was brevetted Major-General April 18th, 1865. In November, 1862, he ran for Governor of Massachusetts on the People's Ticket against John A. Andrew, but was defeated. He continued with his command during the time he was running for Governor. In 1867 he was appointed by Governor Bullock, a Republican, as a Justice of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, a position which he has since held. He delivered the oration at the centennial of the battle of Bunker Hill. General Devens is a man against whose public and private character even opposing politicians have never breathed a word, and, although a Democrat in principle, his selection as a Cabinet Minister is a great and cheering advance upon Boutwell and Richardson, the last representatives of Massachusetts in the Cabinet.

The Boston Globe thinks the change of front of both parties, on the subject of State rights is not to be regretted, as it is possible we shall get out of it something like a national agreement as to the fundamental principles of the Government. We should concur in the conclusion if we could in the facts. But we do not understand that both parties have changed front. The Democracy appear to us to have changed front completely, but the position of the Republican party with respect to the question of State rights differs in nothing, so far as we can see, from that always occupied by that party. Still, believing the Republican position to be the true one, the fact that the Democrats have abandoned the extreme and dangerous ground they used to hold on the subject, is a circumstance from which hope of a better understanding may be derived. The fear is that the Democracy, having taken nothing by their anti-State rights move, will return in disgust to the old heresies.

Senator Blaine made a mistake in assailing the Administration Wednesday, and repeated that mistake yesterday. The people of the United States sympathize with the President in his efforts to lift the government out of partisanship and set its feet upon the rock of patriotism. The Republicans of the whole country are ready to stand by him, whatever the small politicians may advise; and a Senator of Mr. Blaine's standing can not identify himself with a minority composed of political hucksters and jobbers, without liability to be classed as one of them. We feel sure the man who was strong enough two years ago to defy the power of the regular caucus of his party, is strong enough now to set at naught the dictation of the [illegible] and we hope to hear him proclaim his independence of them.

A friend at our elbow, who is a genius for figures, hands us the following, which is a collated statement of the ages of the men who have recently been named to compose the cabinet of President Hayes: Evarts, who heads the cabinet, is 59 years of age; Sherman, the distinguished Senator from Ohio, is 54; Thompson, 68; Key, 53; Schurz's is not given; McCrary, 42; Devens, 57.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS

And Others, Interested in The Portland Warehouse and Dock Company.

AT A MEETING OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS of The Portland Warehouse and Dock Company, duly and legally held on the 8th day of March, 1877, the following resolution was unanimously adopted, to wit:

CITY.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.—On Tuesday last was duly celebrated, by family reunion and a large social gathering of friends and acquaintances, the thirty-fifth anniversary of the wedded life of Mr. and Mrs. Hillery Cason of East Portland. The family reunion took place at 4 o'clock P. M., when Mr. and Mrs. Cason, at the head of the dinner table, could look along its length and view eleven children, four sons-in-law, one daughter-in-law, and fourteen grandchildren around the table at the same time. There was but one of the entire family connection absent, namely, the youngest child of Purser Carney—it being too sick to be brought from home. About 8 o'clock a large assemblage of friends were present in the parlors, when five of the grandchildren were baptised, Rev. T. Dillon officiating. The names of these children were as follows: Homer Hayes Smith, Rodney Adel[illegible] Nicholson, Carrie Linnette West, William [illegible]van Smith, and Eddy Carney. After a splendid collation, of which all present partook, Mr. and Mrs. Cason were made the recipients of numerous and valuable presents, mostly of fine linen manufacture. A short congratulatory speech was made by Dr. Dillon, and was most happily responded to by Mr. Cason, who very amusingly recounted some interesting occurrences in his married life. An original poem, composed for the occasion by Mrs. John [illegible], was read by Mrs. T. C. Dillon; also, an appropriate piece, selected for the occasion by Mrs. Henrietta Quivey [illegible] followed impromptu remarks from Mr. [illegible], Dr. John Kenworthy, and others, [illegible] much to the interest of the [illegible] a late hour the company [illegible] well pleased with the memorable anniversary.

Lecture free.

CHURCH IMPROVEMENTS.—[illegible] at the Taylor-street M. E. church of this city having been thought deficient, workmen have been employed during the week making a door through the rear wall of the church [illegible] by a stairway into the yard [illegible] the doorway [illegible] increasing the means of exit [illegible] half. The Congregational church [illegible] repairs, and the audience [illegible] be ready for service for several [illegible] the design to fresco after the [illegible] is finished. AMUSEMENTS.

Another jammed house greeted the second appearance of the [illegible] Jubilee Singers last evening at New Market theater. Substantially the programme rendered on the opening night was repeated last evening, several new pieces were being [illegible]. There can be no better or stronger evidence [illegible] the ladies and gentlemen present were perfectly delighted than to mention the fact that every song [illegible] encored, the audience in several [illegible] having three [illegible] from the same person. [illegible] derson and her sister, Annie, [illegible] honors of [illegible] the audience by their sweet and simple songs, Miss Annie Winston, Miss Dora Clark and [illegible] Della Reyno [illegible] of applause. Nor [illegible] omit to mention Mr. Hunly, [illegible] basso, Mr. Henderson and Mr. [illegible] though the constant demand [illegible] very trying on the singers [illegible] beyond their strength, yet [illegible] fully responded to the frequent calls. It really seemed like imposing on good nature to have asked them to double the announced programme, which included eighteen pieces, but public taste is often too arbitrary, and inexorable in its demands. A delighted audience is apt to require a poor singer to contribute to its enjoyment beyond his or her physical strength. Indeed [illegible] for Miss Lulu last evening that Mr. Jackson, the director, felt it incumbent upon himself to come forward and, in a most [illegible] but firm manner, declined to allow the little colored linnet to sing any more. This evening the company will appear again. The programme will be entirely new. During the evening Miss Lulu will sing "The Old House Is Not What It Used To Be," and "The Old Cabin Home in the Dell." This morning the box sheet will be open at Gray's music store, at 10 o'clock sharp, for the matinee tomorrow afternoon. Saturday evening will conclude the season here. Monday evening the Jubilee Singers will appear at Oregon City, Tuesday and Wednesday at Salem, Thursday and Friday at Albany, and Saturday at Eugene.

Howard, commanding Department of the Columbia, left this city Monday morning, the 5th inst., for a visit of inspection to the Fort at Walla Walla, and the issuing of general orders and instructions to the U. S. forces in that section; also with a view to ascertain the full nature and extent of the recent apparently hostile movements of Joseph, the Nez Perce chief, and his band.

DAY MORNING, MARCH 9, 1877.

CITY.

[illegible] ANNIVERSARY.—On Tuesday last was duly celebrated, by family reunion and a social gathering of friends and acquaintances, the thirty-fifth anniversary of the wedded life of Mr. and Mrs. Hillery Cason of Portland. The family reunion took place at 4 o'clock P. M., when Mr. and Mrs. Cason, at the head of the dinner table, could see along its length and view eleven children, sons-in-law, one daughter-in-law, [illegible] grandchildren around the table at the same time. There was but one of the family connection absent, namely, the child of Purser Carney—it being too [illegible] to be brought from home. About 8 o'clock a large assemblage of friends were in the parlors, when five of the grandchildren were baptized, Rev. T. Dillon officiating. The names of these children were as follows: Homer Hayes Smith, Rodney Adelbert Cason, Carrie Linnette West, William [illegible] and Eddy Carney. After a splendid collation, of which all present partook, Mr. and Mrs. Cason were made the recipients of many and valuable presents, mostly of home manufacture. A short presentation speech was made by Dr. Dillon, and was most happily responded to by Mr. Cason, who very feelingly recounted some interesting occurrences of his married life. An original poem, written for the occasion by Mrs. John Kenworthy, was read by Mrs. M. C. Dillon; also, a [illegible] piece, selected for the occasion by [illegible] Quivey, was sung. There were impromptu remarks from Mr. H. [illegible], Dr. John Kenworthy, and others, [illegible] to the interest of the occasion. [illegible] the company dispersed, all well [illegible] the memorable anniversary.

This lecture [illegible] more than the first, in interest[illegible] incidents, all told with the [illegible] and force for which Mr. Anthony [illegible] popular. All desiring to hear [illegible] history and resources of [illegible] portion of the world, together [illegible] early missionary life, account [illegible] the grave of Captain Cooke, etc., [illegible] be present that evening. Several [illegible] were sung in response to encores. [illegible] be no better or stronger evidence [illegible] ladies and gentlemen present were [illegible] delighted than to mention the fact [illegible] song was heartily encored, the audi[illegible] several instances strongly insisting [illegible] three songs in succession from [illegible] person. As usual, Miss Lulu Henderson and her sister, Annie, carried away the [illegible] of the evening, fairly capturing [illegible] by their sweet and simple songs. [illegible] Winston, Miss Dora Clark and [illegible] Reyno also came in for their share [illegible]. Nor, in this connection, can we [illegible] mention Mr. Hupl[illegible], the charming [illegible] Henderson and Mr. Grimes. Al[illegible] the constant demand for encores was [illegible] on the singers, taxing them a most [illegible] their strength, yet they most cheer[illegible] responded to the frequent calls. GRAND JURY'S REPORT.

Yesterday the grand jury completed its labors and was discharged from further attendance on the court. Before adjourning they submitted the following report, which was placed on file:

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the county of Multnomah. In the matter of the proceedings of the grand jury for the February term, 1877.

To the Hon. E. D. Shattuck, judge of the above entitled court: The grand jury for the February term respectfully report:

That we first examined the criminal cases where the parties had been held to answer, and then the various causes that came before us. After our examination into the crimes that had been committed, we visited the city jail for the city of Portland, the county jail, the insane asylum and the county poor house.

CITY JAIL.

We found the city jail, under the charge of J. H. Lappeus, chief of police, in good condition, safe, clean and well kept.

COUNTY JAIL.

The county jail, under charge of Eli Morrill, jailor, is in as good condition as it can be situated below the surface of the ground. The jailor does all he can to make it comfortable, but it is so far down in the ground that it is damper than it should be for the health of the prisoners. The outside walls are so constructed as to be unsafe, and we recommend that they be so repaired or rebuilt as to make the jail secure.

INSANE ASYLUM.

The Insane Asylum at East Portland under the management of the proprietor, Dr. J. C. Hawthorne, is all the law contemplates it should be—a pleasant home for its unfortunate inmates.

POOR FARM.

The County poor house, in charge of Robert Cleghorn, is not conducted as it should be, so far as the disposition of the produce of said farm is concerned, and accounting for the money arising from the sale thereof. We recommend that the Superintendent be required to furnish the County Court monthly statements of the sales of produce of said farm, showing the articles sold, to whom sold and the price received. The paupers are not treated as the law contemplates, and we recommend that the County Court examine into the way the Superintendent conducts the business of the farm and treats the paupers.

OFFICES OF CLERK, SHERIFF AND TREASURER.

We also examined the condition of the offices of the treasurer, sheriff and county clerk. The records, to which attention was called by your honor are now so kept as to prevent any further loss of papers and judgment rolls. The papers and judgment rolls that are gone were taken from the office before the present system was adopted of taking receipts for papers that are taken from the office. We herewith submit a report made to us by James A. Smith, county clerk, of all the judgment rolls which are not to be found in the clerk's office, and recommend that the attention of the attorneys be called to it, and they be requested to examine their offices for judgment rolls and papers that belong to the clerk's office, and return them to the clerk.

W. D. PRETTYMAN,
Foreman of the Grand Jury.

NOTES FROM THE DALLES.

From our local correspondent:

Mr. E. C. Pentland is confined to the house with the chills and fever.

St. Paul's Episcopal church is being well attended during the Lenten services, with the Rev. R. D. Nevius officiating. I learn it is the intention of Dr. Nevius soon to erect a vestry to the church, something the parish is very much in need of.

A spontaneous wedding at the residence of Mr. Emil Shannoe was the topic of conversation on our streets yesterday afternoon, the contracting parties being Mr. Chas. Shuster, of Klickitat county, W. T., and Miss Mary C. Thompson, of Wasco county, Oregon. The marriage was solemnized by E. Shutz, J. P.

A surprise party given to Miss Mary Springer, at the residence of her aunt, on Tuesday evening, was a pleasant affair for all who participated. Miss Mary has been in our city some six or seven months, on a visit to her sister and aunt. She returns home to Portland on Friday. We wish her a safe journey home.

Grand Worthy Chief Templar W. R. Dunbar lectured at the M. E. church in our city Monday evening on the subject of temperance to an audience of 500 people, with Harmon Lodge, I. O. G. T., in full regalia—one hundred members. The temperance banner is waving high in our city, and long may the good work prosper.

Our city was thrown into an unusual state of excitement on the arrival of the train from Celilo on Monday last, when it became known that our efficient sheriff, J. R. Crassen, had returned, having in charge John Wesley Parker and one Mrs. Jenny Campbell, arrested for the crime of adultery, and it came very near being a case to be tried by Judge Lynch's court. However, they got a hearing before Justice Shutz's court, with standing room at a premium; and were bound over in the sum of $1,500 to appear at the next term of our circuit court; and failing to secure bonds, were remanded to the custody of the sheriff. Mrs. Campbell is the daughter of a Mrs. Whipple of your city, who but recently came to our county with her husband looking for some land. The man Parker is a resident of Baker county, where I hear he is under bonds for distributing obscene literature among school children, and it is the sincere wish of all in the community that he may get his just deserts.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Our correspondent at Salem sends the following under date of March 8th:

The diphtheria has almost entirely disappeared from our midst.

Haines & Gosinger will occupy the store vacated by Murphy and Crossman on State street.

Gov. A. C. Gibbs and Sam R. Irwin, of your city, are registered at the Chemeketa Hotel.

Hoag E. Akin, formerly of the Salem post-office, has returned to his Eastern home in Johnsville, N. Y.

Judge Watson and wife returned from San Francisco on the last steamer, and are stopping at the Chemeketa hotel.

F. H. Gilfry, Esq., private secretary to Gov. Grover during his term of office, will at once commence the practice of law in this city.

Alonzo Gesner's surveying party started yesterday for the wilds of Eastern Oregon, intent on bringing order out of chaos therein.

The weather in this section of the country is inclined to be moist, apparently making up for the lovely weather of the month just closed.

The blue glass sensation has just made its appearance in our midst, and Salemites are discussing the merits of Pleasant's theory pro and con.

We learn that the residence of W. Q. Adams was burglarized a few days since, the light-fingered gentry getting away with a liberal haul of silver plate.

The Republican jollification of Monday evening last consisted only of a salute and a brilliant display of fireworks from the roof of our county court house.

Politicians are already figuring on the State election of 1878, and have commenced laying their wires in this county to manipulate matters to serve their own purposes.

The State printers have closed their labors, and departed from our midst. "Mart" provided them with a champagne supper at the Chemeketa hotel on Monday evening last.

We hear numerous inquiries regarding the probabilities of the Tennessee Jubilee Singers visiting Salem, and feel assured they would receive a cordial welcome should they conclude to do so.

The ladies of the Congregational Church are making arrangements for an entertainment to be given at Reed's Opera House on the evening of March 23, which promises to be very pleasant.

J. E. Boynton, Esq., has we learn been tendered and accepted a responsible situation in Ladd & Tilton's banking house, of your city, and is now closing up his business here preparatory to removing soon.

Among the passengers on the outgoing steamer for San Francisco are the following Salem merchants: A. B. Crossman, E. N. Gillingham, Warner Breyman, L. Meyer, J. W. Weatherford and J. M. Haines.

The remains of Harry Bear arrived here on the express train this morning. They were met at the depot by a concourse of friends and at once conveyed to their last resting place in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

Hon. R. W. Wilson, formerly of this city, but more recently a citizen of Tillamook county, died there some time during the last week. He represented that county in the lower house of the Legislature of 1874, and was considered a good man by all who knew him.

Joseph Hoyt's health continues to improve.

W. W. Martin, the well known jeweler of this city, has just put the finishing touch on the elegant gold headed cane presented to Hon. A. J. Dufer, centennial commissioner, by his friends in this city. It is a superb affair, manufactured entirely of Oregon products and costing in the neighborhood of seventy-five dollars.

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians or sold by druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted, can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The Treaty of Paris.

LONDON, March 8.—The Times to-day modifies the opinion about surrendering the treaty of Paris, and argues that treaties are only co-existent with the conditions under which they are framed. Lord Derby denies the treaty obligation of the powers to defend Turkey, or their right to defend her integrity and independence, or that of France, Germany, Italy, or Russia herself, exists without the sanction of that solemn treaty. But Lord Derby has declared Turkey cannot expect help from England; thus the final result of the treaty of Paris is the superfluous affirmation of a right which we do not intend to use.

Answer to the Russian Circular.

LONDON, March 7.—A Times' dispatch from Vienna says it seems the formula for an answer to the Russian circular has been found and that it is one to which all the powers can agree, so that their answers will be identical in essence if not in form. It is far from containing anything which might induce Russia to consider the harmony which existed at the conference is at an end, and thus inducing her to take an independent course. The answer is a warm European recognition of all the efforts and sacrifices made by Russia for the Christians in Turkey. If these efforts have not quite had the desired effect, the powers seem to be willing to take their share of the ill success of the conference, so there is no reason for Russia to consider her dignity more compromised than the rest of Europe. It will be pointed out, despite the failure of the conference, that its efforts have not been fruitless. There is peace with Servia, and it may be hoped with Montenegro also. The Porte has recognized the necessity of the reforms advocated by the powers, and has been aroused from his lethargy.

The lion's share of these successes is to be awarded to Russia in the answer of the powers, so that Russia will be able to point to the recognition to her success by Europe to obviate domestic pressure. How far this satisfaction, coupled as it will be with the refusal to take any further steps, will go to make Russia withdraw seems very doubtful, but it is hoped that it will serve as a thread for future negotiations, with which Gen. Ignatieff's tour is doubtless connected.

LONDON, March 8.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Under Secretary of the foreign department said England as yet had sent no reply to the Russian note. The reply was intended to have been sent last week, but owing to Russia's request to await further communication was deferred. The further communication is not yet received.

Number of Killed and Wounded.

The News' special from Pesth reports, according to the official statement of the Servian war minister, the Servians lost 8,000 killed and 20,000 wounded during the late war.

Mobilization.

VIENNA, March 8.—It is stated in military circles that the measures announced for the formation of a new Russian corps will be equivalent to the mobilization of the whole country, except Finland.

Threatens to Resign.

The Roumanian minister threatens to resign, if the Porte any longer hesitates to declare that Roumania is not regarded by Midhat Pasha's constitution as an integral part of the Turkish Empire.

Cabinet Crisis in Greece.

ATHENS, March 8.—The ministry has resigned in consequence of a vote of censure passed upon it by the chamber for granting illegal pension. The King summoned M. Eduegers to form a new cabinet at Croydon.

Russian Views.

VIENNA, March 8.—The Political Correspondence publishes a letter from St. Petersburg stating that Prince Gortschakoff has instructed Count Shouvaloff to urge the British cabinet not to reply to the Russian circulars. Count Schouvaloff is simultaneously instructed to explain Russian views as follows: Either the powers, and especially England, to consider the treaty of 1856 as binding, notwithstanding the Porte's negation of the decisions of the conference, or Russia will regard the Porte's right derived from the treaty as annulled. In the first case Russia limits the powers which must co-operate to bring about the Porte's complete acceptance of the resolution in the original form, and thus every means be afforded Russia of avoiding warlike complications. If, however, the signatory powers still remain inactive, Russia will consider they renounce insisting upon the obligations of Turkey and also the Turkish right, and Russia will accordingly declare the treaty of Paris as affecting herself, and reserve to herself the right of independent action. Similar instructions have been sent the Russian ambassadors at Vienna, Berlin, Paris and Rome.

Turkish Determination.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 7.—In the face of steps to modify the attitude which it assumed at the conference, the Ottoman government firmly maintains its determination to make no concession which will directly or indirectly interfere with its integrity and independence, but carry out, of its own accord, the reforms throughout the Empire that the Powers demanded for certain provinces. It is authoritatively stated that the Porte will go to war rather than submit indefinitely to Russia.

England Charged with the Responsibility.

LONDON, March 7.—The Times' dispatch from Rome says the Russian diplomats there state that General Ignatieff won't visit London because Lord Beaconsfield has intimated his presence would embarrass the government. The Russian telegraphic agency declares that the responsibility for war, in case it should break out between Turkey and Russia, would rest with the British cabinet, whose contradiction and tenacity would precipitate it. Russia is again firm and moderate, relying on the half million soldiers concentrated on the southern frontier. Her sole aim is the well guaranteed amelioration of the fate of the Turkish Christians, and this object must be attained. Russia will discuss with calmness and good will all combinations which may appear calculated to conduce to this end, this desire having nothing contrary to the views of Europe and its wishes being unanimous, a pacific result may be hoped for. Prince Milan answering the note of Prince Nicholas about breaking the treaty, excuses himself on the plea of impervious necessity.

Renovation, not Prostration.

Did any enfeebled human being ever become strong under the operation of powerful cathartics or salivants? It is sometimes necessary to regulate the bowels, but that can not be done by active purgation, which exhausts the vital forces and serves no good purpose whatever. The only true way to promote health and vigor, which are essential to regularity of the organic functions, is to invigorate, discipline and purify the system at the same time. The extraordinary efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in cases of debility or irregularity of the organs of digestion, assimilation, secretion and discharge, is universally admitted. Appetite, good digestion, a regular habit of body, active circulation of the blood, and purity of all the animal fluids are induced by this superb tonic and corrective. It has no equal, moreover, as a preventive of chills and fever and other types of malarial disease. To emigrants and travelers it is particularly serviceable as a medical safeguard.

There are probably a hundred or more persons in this and neighboring towns, who daily suffer from the distressing effects of kidney troubles, who do not know that Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is almost a certain cure. In severe cases, great relief may be obtained, if not a perfect cure.

We notice that the Agricultural papers all over the country recommend the use of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders.—Exchange.

Farmers and others in this section have long known and appreciated the advantage of these powders over all others.

LYON'S KATHAIRON makes beautiful, glossy, luxuriant hair; prevents its falling out or turning gray. It has stood the test of 40 years. Is charmingly perfumed, and has no rival.

HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM preserves and restores the complexion; removes freckles, tan and sallowness; makes the skin soft, white and delicate. Its application cannot be detected.

Admitted to Bail.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—In the case of James Kellogg the examination was continued till March 28th, and the prisoner admitted to bail in the sum of $6,000, it not appearing he had received any portion of the amount obtained on the forged checks.

Failed to Agree.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—In the case of Frederick Mariott, Jr., on trial for libeling Frederick Clay, the jury this evening disagreed, standing nine for conviction and three for acquittal.

A dispatch to Capt. Lees from New York says a writ of habeas corpus has been applied for in the case of Blacklock, the absconding president of the Gulf of California Oyster Canning Company. Detective Coffey will leave for New York to-morrow with a requisition for the prisoner.

Citizens living in the vicinity of Mission creek held a meeting this evening and adopted resolutions calling for prompt action in filling up and reclaiming the creek and adjacent low lands, which have proved a fruitful source of miasma, disease and death.

A People's Party.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—The general current of talk in political circles here seems to indicate the probability of the formation of a people's party for the coming municipal campaign. A large portion of the Democracy, including the southern wing of the party, declared an intention of being no longer governed by the Brady and Mannix crowd, and it is deemed likely they will welcome the proposition for coalition with the more moderate Republicans and the formation of a municipal ticket that will take the government from the hands of professional politicians and give it to the control of the taxpayers' interests. There is no intention manifested to carry the movement into the legislative fight, but to leave that for settlement on party principles.

The Illegal Voters.

The evening papers print a list of 3,227 names, alleged in the report of the finance committee of the board of supervisors to have cast illegal votes at the recent general election in this city; 1,986 are foreigners—1,005 being Irish, 390 Germans, 117 English, the others being variously distributed as to nationality. Casual examination of the list shows the names of many prominent citizens and old residents, of all walks of life, whose right to suffrage has been unquestioned for years, including both native born and naturalized citizens. The county clerk himself figures in the list; also prominent members of the Democratic State central committee. The work has evidently been very carelessly performed, and the list will probably be largely reduced on close criticism.

The more the recently published list of fraudulent votes is canvassed the more disgust it seems to inspire. Every other man you meet is mad about it or knows some one that is. An excited individual who has been voting for the last 15 years, this evening started down town with the deliberate intention to whip the whole force of the Bulletin and Post for publishing the list, but finally concluded to expend his rage on those who were responsible for making it up. A great many others are in a similar state of mind, and every one seems to know of two or three names that ought to be taken off at once. Reasoning from this analogy it seems probable that at least one third of the list will be knocked off. There is considerable feeling manifested at the evident want of care with which the parties having the matter in charge have conducted it.

Sale of Silver.

The Nevada Bank has closed a sale of 1,000,000 ounces of fine silver to the government, at terms withheld.

Grand Army Entertainment.

SACRAMENTO, March 7.—The inaugural entertainment given to night by the Grand Army of the Republic was a great success. It was eminently patriotic and wholly non-partisan. The oration was by Hon. Henry Edgerton, and was one of the most dispassionate and patriotic of speeches, being applauded alike by Democrats and Republicans. No part of the long programme of exercises was in the slightest degree of a character to awaken partisan feeling. A grand ball closed the entertainment, which has done much to promote social good feeling among men of both parties here.

A north wind, quite drying, prevailed here to-day.

The Big Trot.

Sporting men arrived in numbers to-day, and the betting is heavy on Occident and Bodine. The race is to come off on Friday. At present pool selling favors Occident slightly.

Santa Barbara Items.

SANTA BARBARA, March 7.—The wind has been blowing all around the compass for the last two days, most of the time heavily. No signs of rain. A gentleman from the north of the county, who came down yesterday, says stock men are bound to lose most of their cattle. Farmers, he thinks, will manage to scrape through with little loss, save their crops and seed already put in.

There was a general jollification last evening by the Republicans on the inauguration of Hayes. Among the resolutions passed was one to keep up the organization of the Hayes and Wheeler Club, to act in the coming campaign with the State and county Republican central committees. The officers of the old club were retained for the new organization.

Southern Pacific Railroad.

SAN DIEGO, March 8.—A Union special correspondent at Yuma telegraphs to day: A surveying party under William Hord Esq., assistant Chief Engineer of the Southern Pacific Railroad to-day broke camp, established here three months ago, and proceeded along the south side of the Gila. Mr. Hord, in conversation this morning, assured me there was no doubt of the road coming to Yuma, but on which of the three or four choice lines he could not say, nor will it be known till the Board of Directors choose and make it public. Work is steadily progressing; track layers reached a point 61 miles from here yesterday, and to day the terminal station is to be moved to Castle Rock. Some heavy work is retarding rapid progress for the past month, and more will be encountered before reaching the river, so that the completion of the road to this point need not be looked for before the last of April.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Lost—The Urso Troupe.

VICTORIA, (B. C.), March 8.—Wm. Marsh, an old resident, got lost in the woods near town a night or two ago and died from exposure yesterday.

The Urso company start south to morrow after a successful concert season.

The latest miracle is Ruth Harris (colored) of Washington; she has been dumb for eight years. She committed some dreadful act, and when accused of it called upon her Creator to strike her dumb if she did not speak the truth. She was struck dumb and never spoke again until one night last week, when she had a dream. Her mother—who died about a year ago—appeared unto her in the watches of the night, and told her that her powers of speech would return to her. Awaking from her dream, she found that her speech had indeed returned. Rejoicing at the discovery, she turned over in bed, touched her husband's shoulder, and when he was aroused, remarked: "What do you think?" He thought the world was at an end, and waited for no explanation. Bouncing out of bed he ran into the street and aroused the neighbors. They returned with him, and found that Ruth could really talk again. So runs the tale. Possibly the miracle vein is being overworked just now.

The Maryland Academy of Science has discovered something more dreadful than the North Carolina flesh shower. Namely, spring tails, or more poetically, snow bugs, or, more scientifically, produra. In a paper recently read before the Academy, Dr. Morris describes a shower of the aforesaid. The woods in Baltimore county were full of them. The insect has six legs, four to stand on and two to jump with; his eyes have sixteen facets, and he has four jointed antennæ; the leaping apparatus is coiled like a spring; when he uncoils it he leaps to an amazing distance. They are sometimes found "crowded together in heaps like piles of gunpowder. When disturbed they leap and disperse, but soon gather again in groups."

The quiet condition in financial and mercantile circles noticed for several weeks past is not changed in its most important features. There are some calls for monetary aid in local improvements and enterprises, and the inquiry for funds to carry forward the fishing business is also being somewhat augmented. But, altogether, the demand is not regarded as heavy for the season, and is readily met by the several banks without any noticeable diminution in the amount of available funds at hand. Outside parties are also offering very considerable sums at the usual rates. But few borrowers, comparatively, are in the market, except for the purposes mentioned. From San Francisco advices by mail are to the effect that the money supply is abundant, and as a great deal under the same circumstances which existed in former seasons would have been put into stock speculations, is now upon the market seeking other safer opportunities for investment. The general outlook for financial matters on the Pacific is somewhat strongly indicative of a reduction of rates all along the line.

In trade matters there are but few new features to note. Receipts of general merchandise are large and many of our wholesale and jobbing houses are already displaying very full stocks of goods suitable to the spring trade. The price lists of leading houses show a reduction on several leading articles among staple goods. Groceries and boots and shoes, however, are likely to open at somewhat higher figures than ruled when last spring's business began.

Domestic Produce.

In the line of domestic products receipts and prices show some decline during the past week. The wheat surplus which can be reached from the lines of transportation in this valley is undoubtedly small, and when the vessels now at hand have loaded, it is estimated that but little more will be shipped before harvest. There are yet probably 4,000 or 5,000 tons east of the mountains which will not be needed for local consumption. Exporters quote to-day at $1 85@1 87½, while a good round lot which could be placed at tide water readily would command an advance.

Flour is in fair demand for the local trade, and some call for shipment, with only moderate receipts. Oats are in fair request, with light receipts, but prices show a material decline. In other products there is nothing calling for comment, the market being quiet and steady at our quotations.

Wishing to Invest, and those in Search of Business Openings,

MAY SAVE DISAPPOINTMENT AND EXPENSE by consulting the undersigned, author of the Book of Information and Settlers' Guide, describing minutely all the more important bodies of the Public Lands on the Pacific Slope; facilities for settlement, markets, health, etc., with a Supplement, (just published.) Also, Washington Territory, giving a minute description of its lands and facilities for settlement, land law, climate, resources, etc., (second edition just published). Have cultivated the soil in various parts of California, Oregon and in Washington Territory. The principal part of the past seven years spent in exploring and examining the same, at great expense of time, labor and money. All the principal parts revisited within the past twelve months. This, together with a residence and experience of over thirty years on this coast, has given me a very thorough practical knowledge of the whole country. Special information and advice given, such as: our government lands, best bodies of, where found, quality of soil, what best adapted for, facilities for market, climate, health, etc. Our native forest timber, where found in their greatest perfection, adaptation to the mechanical arts, etc. Investments, stock raising, dairying, business openings, etc., together with advantages and disadvantages of any given section. No interests to subserve, other than to give correct and reliable information, and receive a moderate compensation for my labor. Full set of the above publications sent by mail to any part of the United States on receipt of fifty cents. Where special information or advice is required, fifty cents additional should be sent in registered letter.

Hayes' Platform Endorsed.

NEW YORK, March 8.—A meeting was held in Wall street to-day to express approval of the policy of President Hayes in regard to civil service reform and pacification of the South; Wm. A. Booth, president. Jacob D. Vermyle, president of the Merchants' Bank, read the resolutions. They state that the policy declared in President Hayes' inaugural, in favor of the permanent pacification of the South, with equal protection to all citizens, of thorough reform in the civil service, and of an early return to specie payments, recommends itself to the country, and is entitled to the fairest trial; that we stand by the President in the exercise of his constitutional right, and that we shall regret any hesitation to confirm the cabinet, including our honored townsman, Wm. M. Evarts, or any disposition to embarrass or obstruct his policy of conciliation and reform, as tending to interrupt and postpone the restoration of the national confidence so essential to the propriety of all sections. The resolutions were received with applause.

John A. Stewart said nine-tenths of the people, at least of those who were not office-seekers, were in favor of the principles expressed. Senators were apt to obey the will of the people when they once knew it, and he believed they would confirm the nominations for Hayes' cabinet.

John Austin Stevens said: President Hayes has been thwarted by men within the ranks of his own party. It was his conviction that the people were not willing to have the wheels stopped any more at Washington. [Applause.

John Jay spoke briefly in answer to calls: He said the country would decidedly disapprove any attempt to block the wheels of the new government, especially as to the policy of conciliation and reform. He remarked he should preside this evening at a meeting of a Union League club, at which a similar declaration would be adopted.

Geo. T. Hope believed that the country needed just what President Hayes proposed to accomplish. The voice of the people should be heard. It was only fair the President should be allowed to construct his own Cabinet, and the people mean he should have his way. They agree with him in demanding civil service reform, pacification and specie payments.

The resolutions were then adopted by acclamation.

The Herald editorially praises Hayes' cabinet, denounces Blaine, and hopes he will not be bull-dozed by him.

Disappointed.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Times' Washington special says: Blaine is quite disappointed by the failure of his first attempt to lead the Senate. If he had not taken the management of this case from Morton, Kellogg might probably have been sworn in to-day.

It is proper to state the President was informed last night of the letters to which Blaine alluded, and which it is alleged have been written by Evarts and Matthews, and denied any knowledge of them or of having authorized such representations to be made. Doubts are expressed that any such letters were written by Evarts and Matthews. Blaine knew the President had declined responsibility for them, and the men without whom Hayes never could have been President will be sure to regard it with undisguised satisfaction.

Not Antagonistic.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Journal's Washington special says the excitement over Blaine's speech has somewhat subsided and Blaine himself disclaims antagonism to the administration unless the small Republican remnant in the South is to be crushed out.

The published statement that the President denies having authorized Matthews' and Evarts' letters to Chamberlain, increases the confusion in political circles. It looks now as though all the Cabinet nominations would be confirmed, and hardly a respectable minority will oppose Evarts and Schurz.

Davis Defines his Position.

The Republican Senatorial caucus placed Judge Davis on several committees to-day as a Republican member. It was stated Davis considered himself an independent Republican, and would in the main vote with the Republicans, which fact causes much angry comment among Democrats.

Conkling took the floor and read a carefully prepared speech in favor of admitting Grover, as he had a prima facie case.

Blaine's Charge.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The whole body of Republican Senators favor the admission of Kellogg; outside of the carpet-bag Senators there is no hearty approval of Blaine's course. It may be said he charged upon the administration like a wild bull before it did any act in regard to Louisiana and South Carolina, and that he evidently hopes to surround Hayes with Radicals by keeping old issues alive.

David M. Key's Letter.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—In the private letter of Key, alluded to in these dispatches last night, Mr. Key said to a personal friend: I am ready to do all I can to restore the confidence of the government to the people of the South. This can only be done by a hearty fraternization of the sections, for which I have labored. If, without requiring of any sacrifice of any personal or political independence, you find that my name can be used for the good of the South in your best judgment, you are at liberty to use it. If I were to become a member of the administration I should not feel at liberty to place myself in opposition to its general policy, but should feel bound to build it up, strengthen it in the hearts of the people, and if the time arrived when I could not heartily co-operate with it, I should resign. If, as I hope and believe, the administration will resolve upon a peaceful and liberal policy toward the people of the South, I would not hesitate to incorporate my fortunes and self with it.

Congratulated.

Key received the following to-night from Nashville:

> I tender my sincere congratulations. Do not fail to accept.
> B. F. CHEATHAM.

This is the commander of the famous Cheatham division in Johnston's army.

Republican Senate Caucus.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Republican Senators held a caucus this morning, at which a report of the committee appointed to revise the standing committees was submitted and adopted. The minority gets increased representation, so that instead of three Democrats they will have four places out of nine on each non-political committee with perhaps the exception of one or two committees which are of quasi political character. The Republicans have provided for Senator Davis of Illinois by assigning him to the judiciary committee and committee on revision of laws. The Democratic list is not yet complete, and therefore no election of committees will be possible before to-morrow. The Republican members of the new finance committee will be Morrill, chairman, Ferry, Jones of Nevada, Allison and Dawes.

Tax-Collector Murdered.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Inter-Ocean's New Orleans special says: The temporizing policy bore fruit to-day in the murder of D. A. Webber, State tax-collector, at Bayou Sara, by a gang of unknown assassins. Webber was an active Republican from Feliciana parish.

Packard will Fight.

Gov. Packard said to-night he would accept no compromise. He was legally elected governor, and intends to be governor. He will not leave the State house without a fight. The feeling of disgust at the weakness of certain Northern Republicans is growing into a defiant attitude, the culmination of which will be dangerous.

Asked to Resign.

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—The Republican State central committee to-day unanimously passed a resolution calling on Pinchback to resign as president of the committee and member of the national committee before March 17.

Major Burke returned to-day from Washington. He has assurances that lead him to believe Nicholls will be undisturbed.

Reward Offered.

NEW ORLEANS, March 7.—Gov. Nicholls issued a proclamation offering a reward of $5,000 for the apprehension and conviction of the murderer of Webber, killed at Bayou Sara to-day. He expresses a determination to suppress violence and punish crime.

Quite Easy.

The Herald's Washington special says: The President, according to the reports of his friends, seems to be quite easy in his mind. He believes himself right, and thinks he will not fail of support somewhere. He has an admirable temper, and does not scare or worry people who have to come near him. They say they are convinced he means what he says. Republicans who are opposed to his course, while no less opposed, are beginning to think of other tactics than mere opposition. They cry out for delay.

Hurt at his Waning Power.

Blaine, while riding out with some friends, remarked, with considerable feeling, he had not been consulted at all in regard to parties selected for positions in the cabinet. He added, with marked emphasis, that he did not seem to have any more influence in the premises than he had on the floor of the Senate.

What Party Does he Belong to?

Robt. Ingersoll remarked to-night, while conversing with some friends, in a suggestive and rollicking way: "What party do I belong to now, I should like to know?"

Shows His Backbone.

The World's Washington special says: The extraordinary action of the Senate to-day in deferring confirmation of the new Cabinet is variously discussed. The President expressed great astonishment. He had not anticipated unanimous approval of the selection, but at the same time he thought they met the approval of the greater portion of the Senate. He added, he should adhere to the nominations as they had been made, and the Senate could preserve its course in the matter. That had he laid down the policy he intended to pursue, he should carry it out. If the new Cabinet is not confirmed this week, he said, he should proceed in co-operation with the old Cabinet and issue orders for the withdrawal of the troops from the Southern States. If Evarts is unconfirmed, he will probably get the mission to England. If confirmed, Stoughton expects it, though others say Frelinghuysen, who was so useful on the Electoral Commission.

Gen. Dix's Letter.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Gen. Dix in resigning the chairmanship of the Union Veterans national committee, has written a letter in which he says: To the administration of President Hayes we look for thorough reformation of the abuses into which the government has fallen, and a firm resistance to the encroachment of those whose province it is under the constitution to advise and consent to appointments to public trust, upon the prerogative of nomination, which the same instrument has confided exclusively to him, and for imposing restraints upon the unseemly pursuit of office and perversion of official patronage to personal and party purposes. Also for a just and impartial policy in regard to all nations and classes; a policy which shall heal the wounds left by past dissensions, and elevate his administration above the plane of party politics.

Interviews with the President.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Wells and Anderson and Marshal Pitkin, of Louisiana had interviews with the President, and were informed their business would receive as early consideration as public interests would permit.

The President has made his first appointment, outside of cabinet nominations, that of Wm. Stone to the U. S. attorneyship of South Carolina.

There was a conference in the library at the executive mansion between the President and Evarts, Schurz and Devins. It appears to have been a very serious meeting, and the intimations are that the visitors desired to relieve the President from any embarrassment by reason of their selection for cabinet positions; but it is understood the President is determined concerning cabinet appointments and civil service reform, and Southern matters generally. The old cabinet will attend the President to-morrow and the usual council will be held.

Secretary Chandler and Postmaster General Tyner were both in consultation with the President to-day, the latter concerning some important business regarding postal service.

Col. H. C. Corbin, of the Twenty-fourth Infantry, will be detailed for duty at the White House in a similar relation to the President as Gen. Babcock had to President Grant.

Among the visitors to-day were a multitude of ladies, many of whom paid their respects to Mrs. Hayes.

Can They be Harmonized?

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Press opinions on the Cabinet chosen by President Hayes are generally favorable. The Inter-Ocean, while doubting the feasibility of retaining Schurz, acknowledges his great ability, and favors allowing the President to call about him his own advisers, and deprecates the action of the Senate yesterday. Sherman, Thompson, McCrary, and perhaps Devins, stand for the more pronounced element of republicanism, while Schurz and Key represent the liberal and conservative element, and Evarts occupies the half way ground. It is not a body promising great unanimity of thought, but has plenty of brains and ought to be tried until the President at least is satisfied that he has committed an error in assembling men of antagonistic views as his confidential advisers.

Speculations on the Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Last night's outlook regarding the confirmation of Cabinet appointments has not materially changed to-day, except perhaps in the case of Schurz, against whom opposition seems to be gaining some additional strength. Votes against confirming Sherman as Secretary of the Treasury were cast by Democrats, in evidence of their disapprobation of his extreme views and recent radical utterances concerning Southern affairs. Some Democrats advocate opposition to Evarts' confirmation on similar grounds, and also charge that he was a party to the alleged intrigues by which Democratic support was obtained for the electoral act under false pretenses or misleading assurances. Schurz' nomination encounters much more opposition among Republicans than that of Evarts, or even that of Key. The grounds of opposition are not only political but bitterly personal, as he made many enemies while in the Senate by his pronounced independence of party ties and his frequently exercised powers of sarcasm. His confirmation will also be opposed by some Republicans from a dispassionate belief that he does not possess business experience and administrative ability enough for a proper discharge of the multifarious duties of Secretary of the Interior. There seems to be no doubt that the Democrats will all vote for Key, and that his confirmation is therefore certain. The prevailing opinion to-night is that Evarts will be confirmed by a considerable majority. The fate of Schurz' nomination is still an uncertain matter, but unless the Democrats in a body refrain from voting, the chances appear now to favor his confirmation. Sargent to-day made the motion for Sherman's confirmation, and announced himself strongly in favor of confirming all the rest of Hayes' Cabinet appointments immediately. Bogy also heartily approves all of them.

Grover will Demand Investigation.

Sargent withdrew his motion for investigation of the charges against Governor Grover upon assurance by Bayard that Grover will himself further offer a resolution for their thorough investigation. Grover's admission to a seat in the Senate was in accordance with a custom and manifestly proper, as his credentials were found regular in form, and the seat is not claimed by any contestant.

French and Hawaiian Missions.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Tribune's Washington special says: Gen. Noyes, of Ohio, will have the French mission; Gen. J. M. Comby that to Hawaii.

"Unconfirmed and Baseless" Rumor.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Tribune's Washington special says an unconfirmed and baseless rumor prevailed to-night that Schurz would refuse to accept a cabinet position. Senator Cameron has been endeavoring to create fictitious opposition among Democrats to the confirmation of Hayes' cabinet, but has met with no success, and to-day voted himself for Sherman.

A Senator Sick.

Senator Angus Cameron of Wisconsin, is dangerously ill to-night with inflammation of the bowels.

Gen. Devens Visits the President.

Gen. Devens arrived from Boston to-day and had a very satisfactory talk with the President.

An Appointment for Frederick Douglass.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Frederick Douglass will undoubtedly be appointed marshal of the District of Columbia in a few days.

The President Stands Firm.

The President is stated to be firm against the tremendous pressure to induce him to abandon his nominations, and his friends say should the Senate refuse to confirm the nominations he would notify them he had no further communication for them, which would be practically proroguing the Senate. He would then have the right to make ad interim appointments and run his own matters without the consent of the Senate. The Senate now has only a slim Republican majority—38 Republicans, 33 Democrats and Judge Davis, Independent.

Sherman Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Senate confirmed Sherman.

Resignation of Gen. Dix—Good Advice.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Gen. John A. Dix has resigned the chairmanship of the Grand Army of the Republic, and issued an address to the veteran soldiers and sailors of the United States, urging them to maintain the organization, congratulating them upon the election of Hayes and Wheeler, and calling upon all members to give a hearty support to the policy of the civil service reform and conciliation so forcibly expressed in the inaugural address of the President.

Rhode Island Republican Convention.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 8.—Albert C. Howard was nominated for lieutenant-governor, and the present incumbents renominated for Secretary of State, attorney-general and treasurer.

PRESS COMMENTS.

The Chicago Press.

CHICAGO, March 7.—The Times says: In these selections the President has given the country the first distinct intimation that he intends to go back on the damnable policy of the Grant regime, relegating the Mortons, Blaines, Chandlers and Camerons to the rear, and bringing forward the liberal, independent element. This means, music, it means a smash-up of old party combinations that will benefit the country. The Times is satisfied with the prospects.

The Tribune says the cabinet will give general satisfaction to the country at large, and is worthier than Grant's eight years ago. Its composition attests the President's firm intention to carry out the conservative and conciliatory policy, and the opposition to Schurz' confirmation will be personal. He is an abler, wiser, and honester man than any who will oppose him.

Any opposition to Key on the part of the Democrats will be to a certain extent notice that the Southern people are not inclined to meet President Hayes' disposition toward them in the proper spirit, and they will be the sufferers. The distribution of the various sections is wise and fit.

CHICAGO, March 7.—The Post says: We are unwilling to believe any considerable number of Republican Senators will follow the triparite associates in their factious course, but if they do, public opinion, which they defy, ought to be made plain. The President is doing his duty. Now let the country do its duty. He ought to be promptly and energetically supported by the people by all the means by which they made their well-known support so emphatic, that the confirmation of his cabinet appointments shall be made something more than a party matter, so that conservative Democrats in the Senate, as well as conservative Republicans, shall be moved to prompt acquiescence in the President's wise and statesmanlike policy.

Must Stand Firm.

CHICAGO, March 7.—The Times editorially says: Hayes must let the country know whether he is to be the passive tool of the evil characters that have hitherto led the Administration party, or the positive and unflinching leader of a new Administration policy which the more liberal of his supporters have claimed that he would be. Whether he has the courage to fight and the strength to overthrow the Blaine-Morton gang or not, he must do so, or his Administration will utterly fail. From this alternative he can find no way of escape.

Inter-Ocean Items.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says: Blaine has again given voice to the prophesied mutiny in the Republican ranks to-day. What following he will have will appear when the first vote is taken in the Senate. It is known that Cameron of Pennsylvania, Conkling, Anthony, Sargent and Jones stand with him and carry great influence.

Evarts' nomination will be under consideration by a committee consisting of Simon Cameron, Morton, Hamlin, Howe, Conkling and three Democrats. All these, except Morton, disapprove of Evarts. Sherman's name will go to the committee, but will meet with no opposition, nor will the names of any other except Schurz.

Maj. Bickham, of the Dayton journal, who dined with Hayes to-night, is authority for the statement that Hayes never authorized Matthews and Evarts to make a bargain with South Carolina, the Democrats or any other. Some disclaimers is said to have been given other parties.

Departure from Traditional Usages.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The Tribune says the refusal of the Senate to promptly confirm the cabinet appointment of Hayes was a departure from the traditional usage and that it is accounted for on the supposition that several of the Senators took this method of manifesting their resentment of the President's disregard of their respective wishes and claims in the selection of his cabinet, and the determination to form his own administration. It is not believed this manifestation of spite will defeat the confirmation of the cabinet selections, but if such should be the temper of the Senate, President Hayes would still be able to have his chosen advisers in spite of the opposition of the Senate, by simply giving notice that he has no further business with that body and thus putting an end to the extra session.

St. Louis Press.

ST. LOUIS, March 7.—The Globe-Democrat says the disproportionate space occupied in the President's inaugural by the Southern question shows the President fully alive to its importance. It shows his deep interest in the prosperity of the South, and an intelligent understanding of the difficulties of the situation and the needs of the people.

The Republican declares it has little weight, since he obtained his elevated position by such questionable means. The inaugural lacks definiteness like his letter of acceptance. This is especially true of the treatment of the Southern question. There is much platitude, but not one clear declaration.

The Times denounces the President and his inaugural. Says if he lives up to his words he will betray the people who put him where he is. Chandler, Morton & Company discover too late that the creature of their making refuses to divide fairly.

The New Orleans Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—The Picayune says: Such are Hayes' principles, whether or not his practice will conform to them the future alone can determine. His first practical step will be the formation of his cabinet. If popular surmise should prove correct, the South has no longer to fear the marplot of Federal interference.

The Times says: It is a creditable state paper and carries the impression of a broad and intelligent grasp of subjects commented on. Its tone is in every respect commendable. The reader will see that the author at least does not seem to speak with two tongues. It is further apparent he is capable of conserving a statesmanlike policy and expressing it in apt terms, and the conservative position assumed is marked by a dignity and independence which show the ideas presented are an index of policy. It is auspicious and, we have no doubt will satisfy the best elements of society in all sections of the country. Whether the deeds of the new administration will correspond to the pleasant words of the inaugural remains to be seen.

The Democrat says: It is the first statesmanlike utterance that has come from the Republican party since the close of the war. If he shall have firmness and courage to carry out the broad and Catholic views and purposes expressed in that document, he will disarm much opposition to his administration, greatly reduce the difficulties of his position and confer a real benefit upon the country.

The Bee says: Without passing suddenly from our extreme incredulity to something resembling confidence, we say that we have been favorably impressed by the inaugural speech of Hayes. The newly made President has been more explicit than the Southern representatives could have expected. Under the circumstances the policy of pacification is clearly defined.

South Carolina Satisfied.

COLUMBUS, March 6.—The inaugural address of President Hayes meets with the most cordial approval here. Its expressions regarding the Southern policy are regarded as certain indications of the recognition of the Hampton government, consequently an era of peace and prosperity is now confidently expected. The troops will be withdrawn from the State house in the next few days.

The demise of Chief Justice Moses leaves the election of his successor with the new legislature, which will be convened by Hampton.

Regarded as Good.

MEMPHIS, March 8.—Business men here regard Hayes' cabinet a remarkably good one and indicative of prosperity for the whole country.

President Hayes' Support.

MILWAUKEE, March 8.—The three Republican papers here, the Sentinel, Wisconsin and Germania, and the Herald an independent German daily, warmly approve President Hayes' selection of cabinet officers and endorse his Southern policy. The Sentinel, after complimenting Blaine, Morton and other Republican Senators for their courage in the past, says if they oppose it, counsel as to the popular sentiment that has been awakened by the President's inaugural, they are in danger of being crushed beneath it.

How it is Received in the South.

MEMPHIS, March 8.—The Avalanche regards the cabinet as strong and evincing the determination of the President to conciliate the South.

The Appeal criticises Key for desertion of his party.

Sensible Talk from the Courier-Journal.

LOUISVILLE, March 8.—The Courier-Journal says: In the conflict which the blood-thirsty radical leaders have begun against Hayes because of his Southern policy, Democratic Senators should unhesitatingly give all their moral support to Hayes so long as he maintains his present ground. Other city papers warmly endorse the appointments.

SOME REMARKABLE COURT RECORDS.

HILLSBORO, March 9, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The following is a true copy of a petition presented by the Road Supervisor of Road District No. 26, in Wapato Precinct, at the March term of the County Court for 1877, and the order thereon, the latter yet in pencil.

To the Honorable, The County Court of Washington County, Oregon.

Your petitioner undersigned, a loyal and law-abiding citizen of your county, begs leave to show unto your honors the following state of facts:

That heretofore, at the January term of your court, 1877, without solicitation on my part, or the wire-pulling of any devoted friends, your honorable body appointed me to the honorable and responsible position of Supervisor of Road District No. 26 in said county. (I should have been glad to add in that connection—honorable and profitable position, but my predecessor informs me that the sum total of the emoluments of the office consists in honors, and the abuse of his neighbors.)

Your honorable body will therefore take notice that your humble servant proposes to discharge the duties of this said office in such a way as to reflect credit on your honors, and justify the wisdom of your appointment, and also to so "mend the ways" of this part of the Lord's moral vineyard as will save oceans and oceans of profanity expended by both man and beast in getting through that "Slough of Despond," known as the lane between the Tualatin river and the Davis school house.

If your honors will permit, I will express it as my firm conviction, that if John Bunyan's Christian had struck that lane during an Oregon winter, he would never have reached the pearly gates or written the "Pilgrim's Progress." Now to make a long story short, and come down to business, gentlemen, that aforesaid lane must be made a decent, passable highway, and it must be plowed, scraped and thrown up, and cross ayed for three-fourths of a mile, nearly, and that the district labor can do; but we can no more finish the job without nine thousand feet of plank than the Israelites would make good merchantable brick for old Pharo without straw. Do you observe the point?—nine thousand feet of plank, gentlemen. The plank is needed to make several hundred feet of bridging at different points on this lane.

"But seeing," as the apostle said, "that I have written you so long a letter," I hope it may receive your prayerful consideration, for Wapato is in earnest about this said lane, and Wapato, like Cæsar, can stand against the world on an election day or on a wolf hunt. And as in duty bound your humble servant will ever pray.

SUPERVISOR.

ORDER OF THE COURT.

In the County Commissioners' Court for Washington county, Oregon.

WHEREAS, It appearing by an epistle from the lord high captain sojourning in the land of the Wapatoes and troublesome lanes, that the inhabitants thereof travail and will not be comforted, and the hosts of Cæsar—brave men—"stick in the mud" and the wolf howleth upon their "pinacle" and strangers carry away the soil on the sole of the foot whereon groweth the festive wapatoe; and further, the importunities of the "prodigal son" appear insignificant to the present epistle; and the court further realizes that it is as natural for supervisors to ask for plank as it was for Judas Iscariot to carry his Savior's bag. Yet "lest this woman should weary us by her continued importunities," it is adjudged by the Commissioners' Court —that they see the point—that is, 9,000 feet of plank—and that an order be drawn for the same.

SENATE EXTRA SESSION.

Senator Elect from Oregon Sworn In.

Sherman Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, March 7.

After Bayard's substitute, Bayard said his idea in referring Kellogg's credentials to the electoral committee was following a precedent. Kellogg's credentials did not create a prima facie case because Packard, who was not Governor de jure or de facto, signed them. On the contrary, Nicholls had the legal legislature in accord with him, controlling the whole State except about an acre where stood Packard's hotel—the State House. The outgoing administration had honestly, but tardily, admitted the futility of using the military to uphold State Governments. He quoted from President Grant's telegram to Packard on the subject. Ex-President Grant was an attentive listener to these remarks. He alluded to the speech of Edmunds in 1875, when he opposed the admission of Pinchback on the ground that the returning board was illegal, and replying to Blaine he contended the decision of the electoral commission had no binding effect on the Senate. Bayard said Blaine had yesterday challenged with much abruptness the position of the President, who seems to recognize the true condition of affairs in Louisiana, and Bayard said these words of Hayes, in his inaugural, were wise. The peace of Louisiana was the peace of all, and her destruction was the destruction of all. The overthrow of Nicholls and the recognition of Packard would shock the people of Louisiana and thrill everybody in the land. He recognized in Blaine's remarks, yesterday, the same cry for sectional aggression that had been heard for years past. It fell on his ear like a fire bell at midnight.

Blaine argued, the same returning board that returned Hayes and Wheeler returned the Packard government and the legislature which elected Kellogg Senator. He alluded to Bayard's partisan votes on all test questions in the commission.

Mitchell said he understood before he came into the Senate this morning that Hamlin objected to swearing in Grover, the senator elect from Oregon. He (Mitchell) had several petitions from citizens of Oregon objecting to Grover, and therefore presented them to the Senate. It was a duty not sought by him and was not one of the most pleasant of his life, but it had been imposed upon him by his constituents, and he could not shrink from it. Petitions against seating Grover were then read. The charge that he procured his election by bribery and the corrupt use of money; that he unlawfully and corruptly issued a certificate of election to Cronin, and falsely testified before the Senate committee on elections to sustain his act.

Wallace submitted a resolution that the credentials of L. F. Grover, Senator from the State of Oregon, be taken from the table and he be sworn in.

Vice President—That can only be by unanimous consent.

Morton—There is another matter pending.

Sargent moved the petition be printed, but Davis objected.

The question being on the substitute of Bayard on the original resolution of Blaine, in the case of Kellogg, was then agreed to; yeas, 36; nays, 30.

Blaine then, alluding to Bayard's remarks of his (Blaine's) words sounding like fire bells,—said Bayard and himself represented different schools of politics. We come from different sections. We have represented different ideas before the war, and during the war, and since the war, wholly and entirely different. For myself, as long as I may be entrusted with a seat on this floor whoever else shall halt or grow weak, in maintaining, so long as I have strength I will stand for Southern Union men of both colors, and when I cease to do that before any presence North or South, in official bodies or before public assemblies may my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth and my right hand forget its cunning.

Morton said he supposed the question before the Senate was a question of law and law was about the only thing which he had not heard discussed. The Senator from Delaware (Bayard) made some reference to it, but in what he said he was mistaken. Morton [illegible] the record in the case of Kellogg, and [illegible] the constitution of Louisiana to show it was the duty of the Legislature to canvass for Governor and Lieutenant Governor. He then read [illegible] law prescribing the duties of the returning board, and argued there was a quorum of the Legislature present when the votes for Governor and Lieutenant Governor were canvassed, and it was declared Packard had 3,400 majority. He then referred to the action of the Legislature in electing Kellogg and said he received a majority of all the votes. He submitted that the record as presented made the chain of title good. Further argument was superfluous. Regarding the general character of the remarks submitted by Bayard, there is constant talk of fraud. It is charged that the people of Louisiana, by a large majority voted for Nicholls and Tilden, but were defrauded out of their votes, and these charges are constantly made here and elsewhere. The time has come to meet that charge. We stand to roll back evidence upon the record that does hurt it, back to the men where it is upon record and indisputable that the majority for Tilden and Nicholls in Louisiana is false and fraudulent, and that it was obtained by murder and every species of violence and intimidation. In talking about fraud these crimes are constantly ignored. Of the hundreds and thousands of men who have been slain in Louisiana for political purposes in the last few years no mention is made; of the murders, whippings, tortures and inhuman treatment that so largely prevailed during the late canvass,—all that is ignored, and the fruits of these crimes treated as real honest property which they have a right to protect and enjoy. What was done down there is, we claim, and as the evidence shows abundantly, simply under the laws of Louisiana, to deprive them of the fruits of murder and crime; to give expression to the honest vote and to the honest majority of the people of Louisiana. Constant reference is made to the introduction of the army as if it was a crime, while no reference is made to the causes which brought the army into the State. The returning board of Louisiana has been subject to constant denunciation, even the very existence of the board is treated as a crime. Mr. President, there is a returning board in every State of this Union of some character. Every State designates some officers who are deputed by law to count votes. In my State there are all the State officers; in other States a single officer; in others two officers. In some States, like Nebraska, the legislature canvass the votes. But there must be some body, some tribunal or authority, in every State to count the votes. In most States these returning boards have only ministerial powers. They have no discretionary or judicial power. They have no power to take evidence and throw out votes.

Morrill said he voted for the substitute, although he believed Kellogg was fairly entitled to his seat. The Louisiana committee has not yet reported to the Senate, and the matter was of sufficient importance to be investigated by a committee. He thought also the Oregon case was worthy of investigation, and would vote to refer that case to a committee.

The question being on the original resolution of Blaine as amended by the substitute of Bayard, it was agreed to—yeas 42, nays 21.

At 2:20 a message was received from the President.

Morton moved an executive session.

Bayard requested the Senator to withdraw the motion, that he might offer a resolution to have General Morgan, senator elect from Alabama, sworn in.

Morton declined.

Motion for executive session was rejected—yeas 30, nays 3

Bayard then submitted a resolution that the credentials of Morgan be taken from the table and he be sworn in.

Spencer said he desired to speak upon this resolution, but was not able to go on to-day.

Several Senators insisted he should go on.

After a short discussion Morrill renewed the motion for executive session and it was agreed to.

The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of executive business, and when the doors opened the Senate adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 8.

The motion to refer the credentials of Morgan from Alabama to the elections committee was lost, and the resolution that he be sworn in adopted unanimously, and Morgan was sworn in.

Wallace called up the motion to seat Grover. After a lengthy discussion it was agreed to, and L. F. Grover, senator from Oregon, was administered the oath by Vice-President Wheeler.

Sargent submitted the following substitute:

WHEREAS, Under the constitution and laws and practice of the Senate, Lafayette Grover, claiming to be a Senator from the State of Oregon, his credentials being regular and in due form, and there being no contestant for the seat, is entitled to admission to a seat in this body on the prima facie case presented by such credentials, notwithstanding the objections contained in the petition of citizens of the State of Oregon against his admission; therefore,

Resolved, That the credentials of Lafayette Grover be taken from the table and the oath of office be administered to him.

Resolved further, That the petitions of citizens of Oregon containing charges against Lafayette Grover lie on the table until the committee on privileges and elections is organized, when they shall be referred to such committee, together with the credentials, with instructions to investigate such charges and report as to their truth or falsity.

Wallace accepted the substitute.

Conkling moved to amend by inserting in the preamble, after the words "no contestant for the seat" as follows: "And there being in said State but one body claiming to be the Legislature, and but one person claiming to be Governor, and there being no doubt or dispute as to the existence of one legal rightful Governor."

The amendment was accepted by Sargent.

Conkling said he had heard it affirmed that the same reason which entitled Grover to be seated upon a prima facie case entitled Kellogg to be seated on a prima facie case, yesterday. If that position was sound in law and founded in truth, it proved conclusively the caprice of those who voted to refer its credentials yesterday. He declared there was no analogy between the cases. The Oregon case was one in which there was one ascertained constitutional Legislature; it was a case in which there was one ascertained and acknowledged Governor because the constitution did not acknowledge a dual Executive in any State. In the case of Grover there was a prima facie case, and the claimant was entitled to his seat. Afterwards an investigation could be made as to alleged vices lying beyond the certificate. In Louisiana two rival bodies, hotly contesting and restrained from violence and tumult by the arm of power, had been asserting, each against the other, that it was the lawful Legislature. It was equally notorious the two Governors had been sworn in, and each was insisting that he was the lawful Governor, exercising the prerogatives and attributes of Executive of the State. The essential question concerning Louisiana was whether there was a legal Legislature and lawful Governor. The Senate must decide that. The Senate could not have decided it yesterday without hearing a word of the testimony which the Senate Committee had taken. The late illustrious Chief Magistrate could not after three months' examination decide that Packard was Governor or that his legislature was legal. He thought, therefore, proper that testimony be heard. The Senate was not bound by the decision of the Electoral Tribunal which had decided that it was constitutionally debarred from going behind the returns. The Senate was bound by no such provision, but was compelled to inquire into the legality of the electing body. This question has some significance, too, in the light of events swiftly passing before us. Addressing the Vice President, he said: "The other day you were on the eastern portico of the Capitol, overlooking an immense concourse of people. You saw the oath of office administered to the chief magistrate of the republic in which, under the forms and substance of law, all parties and all factions, whatever their convictions may be, peacefully acquiesced, assuming to be endowed with the power of chief magistrate, he uttered to his countrymen something of the principles, purposes, and inspirations which would actuate his administration."

Conkling then quoted from the inaugural regarding Southern affairs, and resuming his remarks, said: "Can it be the chief magistrate was sincere [illegible] those words, does not aspire, with a conscientious aim at the right, to find out, to ascertain to declare who in truth, on the 7th of November last, was chosen Governor of Louisiana? Who in truth of the contestants in the various legislative districts, were entitled to sit and constitute the legislature? And if the chief magistrate, freshly [illegible] with his great duties, does mean, as we are bound to believe he means, by modes provided in the constitution and law to ascertain the very truth of the election in question, shall it be said that on the threshold of his administration the Senate in order to be consistent and allow Grover, as Senator from Oregon, to be sworn in must proceed without any [illegible] of the committee to stone the door in the face of the President or leave him, if his judgment requires him to do it to attempt to recognize one State government although the Senate had recognized another, or to bow before hasty [illegible] of this Senate, made without investigation and [illegible] by its judgment no matter how [illegible] judgment it might be? In conclusion, Conkling again alluded to the Louisiana case, [illegible] thought it was consistent to refer [illegible] serious issue in that case to the committee on elections, and [illegible] involving [illegible].

Morton spoke of the [illegible] a prima facie case, and claimed the case of Kellogg was regular on its face. He came with proper certificate, signed by the Governor and therefore had a prima facie case which was not invalidated because there was another body in the State pretending to be the legislature, or another person [illegible] pretending to be Governor. It had been argued here that because General Grant did not recognize the Packard government, the Senate should not do so. He had as much respect [illegible] dent as any other man, but he [illegible] force of the argument mentioned. [illegible] late President could not be brought here to influence the Senate.

Thurman said the charges against Grover in the petition were as vague as it was possible for language to make them, but Grover desired him to say he courted the fullest investigation, and he would therefore vote for the substitute offered by [illegible].

McMillan argued that [illegible] and unbroken title to one [illegible] of Louisiana.

Saulsbury said it had been stated that the people of the city of New Orleans were an unruly mob, a [illegible] and [illegible] been taken. The Packard government was a usurpation. Packard had no title to the office, and was afraid to show himself out of [illegible] occupied as a State house. Saulsbury [illegible] leader of New Orleans would describe [illegible] an [illegible] government out of the [illegible] was [illegible] by Federal power. It was [illegible] to impose upon the people of this country a man barricaded in his hotel as the lawful president of a sovereign State. He was not [illegible] of peace [illegible] honor to his heart [illegible] (Saulsbury) was not in [illegible] did not believe he [illegible] been clothed with the [illegible] glad to see he appreciated the high station imposed upon him by his oath. He was surprised at the attempt made on the floor of the Senate to browbeat the incoming administration, and the announcement that its policy must not be peaceful. He trusted the President would defeat the appeals of partisans, and obey the high behests of a [illegible].

Howe said if the people of New Orleans were law-abiding, why should Packard be afraid to show himself before them. It had been said that he claimed an office to which he was not entitled. The same thing had been said about the President of the United States, and yet in this law-abiding city that the President was not afraid to show himself. This fact seemed to him (Howe) to distinguish the character of the people of Washington from the character of the people of New Orleans.

Blaine sent to the clerk's desk the following letter to himself:

WASHINGTON, (D. C.) March 8.

HON. JAMES G. BLAINE—Sir:—Hon. William M. Evarts begs me to say to you that he did not endorse the letter of Stanley Matthews to Governor Chamberlin, to the extent implied by the telegram of Governor Chamberlain to me. That letter was presented to him by Haskell of South Carolina, and he wrote upon it substantially as follows: "That he had read the foregoing letter, that he [illegible] the troubles in South Carolina [illegible] desired to hear from Governor Chamberlain upon the subject. Very respectfully, D. T. CORBIN.

Also the following telegram was received by him to-day:

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.

Senator Bayard is mistaken. In every parish outside the city, except in the five bull-dozed parishes, in one of which our tax collector has just been murdered, my government is recognized, save by a few pretended Nichols officials.

S. B. PACKARD.

Thurman asked if he would not give the Senate the Stanley Matthews letter.

Blaine said he would be glad to do it if he had it, but it was in Democratic hands. It was procured by Haskell, who is chairman of the Democratic committee. It is understood a similar letter had been sent to New Orleans first.

The resolutions and preamble submitted by Sargent in the case of Grover were agreed to without division.

Bayard said he was authorized to state that it the purpose of Grover to offer a resolution, if he should be admitted, calling for the fullest investigation of all charges against him.

Sargent then withdrew the second resolution.

Grover was then escorted to the desk of the presiding officer by Bogy and the oath administered.

Thurman said at a former session of the Senate the credentials of J. Eustis, claiming to be a Senator from the State of Louisiana, were referred to the committee on elections. The committee reported against the right of Eustis to a seat, on the ground that the vacancy had been filled by the election of Pinchback. Subsequently it was decided that Pinchback had not been elected. He therefore submitted a resolution that the credentials of Eustis be taken from the table and referred to the committee on elections; laid over until to-morrow.

The Senate then went into executive session, and, when the doors reopened, adjourned.

IN EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Immediately after Senate went into executive session this afternoon a motion was made to bring before the Senate for action the nomination of Sherman for Secretary of the Treasury. Objections being interposed on the ground that the nomination had been ordered to be referred to the finance committee and that it could not now be acted upon without unanimous consent, the Vice President decided the rules applicable to committees, etc., were not in force, as no committees were in existence. After considerable discussion the Vice President was sustained. The question was then taken on confirmation of Sherman's nomination and it was confirmed by a solid vote of Republican Senators against 26 votes in the negative by Democratic members. Several Democratic Senators refrained from voting. No attempt was made to confirm any other cabinet nominees.

Blaine quoted from the remarks of Key while he was in the Senate, in regard to case of the Oregon elector, to the effect that he regarded the action of the Governor of Oregon as wrong, but it was not more reprehensible than the action of the returning boards of Louisiana and Florida, and that he (Key) supported Tilden and Hendricks, and believed them to have been honestly elected.

W. R. Roland, convicted in the circuit court in Marion county, in 1875, of embezzlement, has been pardoned.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 9, 1877.

THE CABINET.

President Hayes selection of Cabinet ministers is by no means satisfactory to the machine men. They are disappointed and chagrined, just as was anticipated. But the probabilities are that the opposition will fail utterly, and the nominees be confirmed, though it is manifest a fierce struggle is about to take place between the Reform Republicans and the machine politicians of the party. Good nerve for a week will bring victory to Hayes and honest administration. We believe the President possesses the nerve, and therefore that he will win.

Most of the persons named for Cabinet positions are of national reputation, and of whose history there is hardly a necessity for anything to be written about them. A brief sketch of each of them however, is not out of place, and we present such a sketch, availing ourselves of the labors of the editor of the Standard, except as to Mr. Devens, the person designated for Attorney-General:

Wm. Maxwell Evarts, LL. D., Secretary of State, is a son of Jeremiah Evarts. He is an eminent lawyer, and was born in Boston in February, 1818; graduated at Yale College in 1837; studied law at Cambridge law school, and commenced the practice of his profession in New York City about 1840. He has been an active but conservative Republican, and took strong ground in 1874 against the unconstitutional military interference in Louisiana. He was principal counsel for President Johnson in his impeachment trial, in 1868, and was appointed Attorney General in the same year. Mr. Evarts is an able statesman, and we hope much for the liberty of the people from his counsels. The office he holds is considered the head of the Cabinet.

John Sherman, Secretary of the Treasury, was born in Lancaster, Ohio, May 10, 1823; received a good education; was admitted to the bar in 1844; was delegate to Whig conventions in 1848 and 1852; was elected to Congress from Ohio in 1854, for the 34th Congress, and was also in 35th and 36th Congresses. He was, during the last term, a candidate for Speaker of the House, and only lacked one or two votes of election. He was appointed chairman of committee on ways and means. In 1860 he was elected to the 37th Congress, and in 1861, on resignation of Senator Chase, he was chosen U. S. Senator for term ending 1867. He was chairman of agricultural and and finance committees, and member of the Pacific railroad and judiciary committee. In 1866 he was re-elected, and again in 1873. He is a man of considerable ability and a warm friend of the inaugurated.

Richard M. Thompson, Secretary of the Navy, was born in Culpepper county, Virginia, June 9, 1809. He received a good English and classical education. Before he was of age he went to the wilds of Kentucky, and in 183_ settled in Louisville in that State, where he became a clerk in an extensive mercantile house. He tired of that, and removed to Lawrence county, Indiana, where he taught school for a few months. He tired again of that, and commenced merchandising and studying law at the same time. He was admitted to the bar in 1834, and almost immediately afterwards was elected to the Indiana legislature. He was re-elected in 1835; went to the State Senate in 1836, where he remained two years, during part of which time he was President pro tem of that body and acting Lieutenant Governor. He was a Presidential elector in 1840,—voting for Harrison; elected to Congress in 841 for the term ending 1843; was elected Presidential elector in 1844; was chosen to Congress again in 1847, and in 1849 declined a re-election. President Taylor offered him the place of Charge d'Affairs to Austria, but he declined. President Fillmore offered him the recordership of General Land Office, and he declined that also. In 1864 he was again elected Presidential elector.

David McKendell Key, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, was born in Greene county of that State, June 27, 1824. His parents moved to Monroe county in 1826, where he was raised on a farm. Graduated at Hiwassee College in 1850. He was admitted to the bar in 1853, and practised in Chattanooga; he was Presidential elector on the Buchanan and Breckinridge ticket in 1856, and the Breckinridge and Lane ticket in 1860. Entered the Confederate army in 1861, and served through the war as Lieutenant-Colonel of 43d Tennessee infantry; was a member of the State Constitutional Convention in 1870; elected Chancellor of Third Chancery District same year and appointed U. S. Senator by a Democratic Governor in 1875 to fill vacancy caused by the death of Andrew Johnson. He took his seat Dec. 6, 1875. When the legislature met J. E. Bailey was elected to fill the unexpired term. Key has taken a conservative course in the Senate.

Carl Schurz (Shoorts) is a native of Libla, near Cologne, in Germany; was in the revolution of 1848; fled first to Switzerland; thence to Paris; thence to London; from thence he came to America in July, 1852. He stayed three years in Philadelphia; thence went to Madison, Wisconsin. In 1856 participated in the Presidential campaign; made his first English oration in the Douglas-Lincoln contest for the Senate in 1858; practiced law at Milwaukie; went on a lecturing tour in 1859-'60; was in Republican national convention in 1860 and favored Mr. Lincoln, who appointed him minister to Spain. He resigned that office in 1861 and joined the Union army as brigadier-general; he rose to be a major-general, and for a short while commanded the 11th army corps at Gettysburg. He was appointed at the close of the war a commissioner to examine and report the condition of the Southern States and the Freedman's Bureau. His report was distasteful to Andrew Johnson. He was elected to the U. S. Senate in 1869. He advocated Grant in 1868, Greeley in 1872 and Hayes in 1876. He has been very much of a newspaper man but is chiefly known as an orator and politician.

George W. McCrary, Secretary of War, was born near Evansville, Indiana, August 29, 1835; his parents removed with him to Iowa Territory in 1836; he was educated in the public school and academy; was admitted to the bar at Keokuk, Iowa, in 1856; elected to State legislature in 1857, and to the State Senate in 1861 for four years; practiced his profession till 1868, when he was elected to the Forty-First Congress; was re-elected to the Forty-Second, Forty-Third and Forty-Fourth Congresses, but was succeeded by another Republican in the Forty-Fifth. He received, in 1874, 11,384 votes over 9,521 for his Democratic opponent, Leroy G. Palmer.

The nominee for Attorney General, Charles Devens, Jr., of Massachusetts, is and always has been, a Democrat. He was born at Charlestown, Mass., April 4, 1820; was graduated from Harvard University in 1838, and subsequently from Cambridge law school; was a State Senator in 1848, and U. S. Marshal for Massachusetts from 1849 to 1853. In 1854 he resumed the practice of the law at Worcester, Mass., and was so engaged at the breaking out of the war. He was chosen major of a rifle battalion April 16, 1861, and was subsequently appointed colonel of the 15th Massachusetts Infantry, one of the best fighting regiments that went from that State. He commanded at Ball's Bluff, before and after the death of Baker. He was promoted to the rank of Brigadier-General April 15th, 1862, was in the battles of Williamsburg and Fair Oaks (in the latter of which he was wounded), and was also at South Mountain and Antietam. He took part in all the subsequent campaigns of the Army of the Potomac, and was brevetted Major General April 13th, 1865. In November, 1862, he ran for Governor of Massachusetts on the People's Ticket against John A. Andrew, but was defeated. He continued with his command during the time he was running for Governor. In 1867 he was appointed by Governor Bullock, a Republican, as a Justice of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, a position which he has since held. He delivered the oration at the centennial of the battle of Bunker Hill. General Devens is a man against whose public and private character even opposing politicians have never breathed a word, and, although a Democrat in principle, his selection as a Cabinet Minister is a great and cheering advance upon Boutwell and Richardson, the last representatives of Massachusetts in the Cabinet.

The Boston Globe thinks the change of front of both parties, on the subject of State rights is not to be regretted, as it is possible we shall get out of it something like a national agreement as to the fundamental principles of the Government. We should concur in the conclusion if we could in the facts. But we do not understand that both parties have changed front. The Democracy appear to us to have changed front completely, but the position of the Republican party with respect to the question of State rights differs in nothing, so far as we can see, from that always occupied by that party. Still, believing the Republican position to be the true one, the fact that the Democrats have abandoned the extreme and dangerous ground they used to hold on the subject, is a circumstance from which hope of a better understanding may be derived. The fear is that the Democracy, having taken nothing by their anti-State rights move, will return in disgust to the old heresies.

Senator Blaine made a mistake in assailing the Administration Wednesday, and repeated that mistake yesterday. The people of the United States sympathize with the President in his efforts to lift the government out of partisanship and set its feet upon the rock of patriotism. The Republicans of the whole country are ready to stand by him, whatever the small politicians may advise; and a Senator of Mr. Blaine's standing can not identify himself with a minority composed of political hucksters and jobbers, without liability to be classed as one of them. We feel sure the man who was strong enough two years ago to defy the power of the regular caucus of his party, is strong enough now to set at naught the dictation of the [illegible], and we hope to hear him proclaim his independence of them.

A friend at our elbow, who is a genius for figures, hands us the following, which is a collated statement of the ages of the men who have recently been named to compose the cabinet of President Hayes: Evarts, who heads the cabinet, is 59 years of age; Sherman, the distinguished Senator from Ohio, is 54; Thompson, 68; Key, 53; Schurz's is not given; McCrary, 42; Devens 57.

Wm. Bigham, Esq., the well-known breeder of fine horses, returned from California without bringing his famous flyer Foster, having concluded to leave him at Sacramento till toward fall. Mr. Bigham leaves this morning for his home in Eastern Oregon.

GRAND JURY'S REPORT.

Yesterday the grand jury completed its labors and was discharged from further attendance on the court. Before adjourning they submitted the following report, which was placed on file:

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the county of Multnomah. In the matter of the proceedings of the grand jury for the February term, 1877.

To the Hon. E. D. Shattuck, judge of the above entitled court: The grand jury for the February term respectfully report:

That we first examined the criminal cases where the parties had been held to answer, and then the various causes that came before us. After our examination into the crimes that had been committed, we visited the city jail for the city of Portland, the county jail, the insane asylum and the county poor house.

CITY JAIL.

We found the city jail, under the charge of J. H. Lappeus, chief of police, in good condition, safe, clean and well kept.

COUNTY JAIL.

The county jail, under charge of Eli Morrill, jailor, is in as good condition as it can be situated below the surface of the ground. The jailor does all he can to make it comfortable, but it is so far down in the ground that it is damper than it should be for the health of the prisoners. The outside walls are so constructed as to be unsafe, and we recommend that they be so repaired or rebuilt as to make the jail secure.

INSANE ASYLUM.

The Insane Asylum at East Portland under the management of the proprietor, Dr. J. C. Hawthorne, is all the law contemplates it should be—a pleasant home for its unfortunate inmates.

POOR FARM.

The County poor house, in charge of Robert Cleghorn, is not conducted as it should be, so far as the disposition of the producer of said farm is concerned, and accounting for the money arising from the sale thereof. We recommend that the Superintendent be required to furnish the County Court monthly statements of the sales of produce of said farm, showing the articles sold, to whom sold and the price received. The paupers are not treated as the law contemplates, and we recommend that the County Court examine into the way the Superintendent conducts the business of the farm and treats the paupers.

OFFICES OF CLERK, SHERIFF AND TREASURER.

We also examined the condition of the offices of the treasurer, sheriff and county clerk. The records, to which attention was called by your honor are now so kept as to prevent any further loss of papers and judgment rolls. The papers and judgment rolls that are gone were taken from the office before the present system was adopted of taking receipts for papers that are taken from the office. We herewith submit a report made to us by James A. Smith, county clerk, of all the judgment rolls which are not to be found in the clerk's office, and recommend that the attention of the attorneys be called to it, and they be requested to examine their offices for judgment rolls and papers that belong to the clerk's office, and return them to the clerk.

W. D. PRETTYMAN,
Foreman of the Grand Jury.

NOTES FROM THE DALLES.

From our local correspondent:

Mr. E. C. Pentland is confined to the house with the chills and fever.

St. Paul's Episcopal church is being well attended during the Lenten services, with the Rev. R. D. Nevius officiating. I learn it is the intention of Dr. Nevius soon to erect a vestry to the church, something the parish is very much in need of.

A spontaneous wedding at the residence of Mr. Emil Shannon was the topic of conversation on our streets yesterday afternoon, the contracting parties being Mr. Chas. Shuster, of Klickitat county, W. T., and Miss Mary C. Thompson, of Wasco county, Oregon. The marriage was solemnized by E. Shutz, J. P.

A surprise party given to Miss Mary Springer, at the residence of her aunt, on Tuesday evening, was a pleasant affair for all who participated. Miss Mary has been in our city some six or seven months, on a visit to her sister and aunt. She returns home to Portland on Friday. We wish her a safe journey home.

Grand Worthy Chief Templar W. R. Dunbar lectured at the M. E. church in our city Monday evening on the subject of temperance to an audience of 500 people, with Harmon Lodge, I. O. G. T., in full regalia—one hundred members. The temperance banner is waving high in our city, and long may the good work prosper.

Our city was thrown into an unusual state of excitement on the arrival of the train from Celilo on Monday last, when it became known that our efficient sheriff, J. R. Crassen, had returned, having in charge John Wesley Parker and one Mrs. Jenny Campbell, arrested for the crime of adultery, and it came very near being a case to be tried by Judge Lynch's court. However, they got a hearing before Justice Shutz's court, with standing room at a premium; and were bound over in the sum of $1,500 to appear at the next term of our circuit court; and failing to secure bonds, were remanded to the custody of the sheriff. Mrs. Campbell is the daughter of a Mrs. Whipple of your city, who but recently came to our county with her husband looking for some land. The man Parker is a resident of Baker county, where I hear he is under bonds for distributing obscene literature among school children, and it is the sincere wish of all in the community that he may get his just deserts.

The Doctor will send a bottle by express, or a box of his Salve by postoffice. Price, 50 cents each, expressage extra.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Our correspondent at Salem sends the following under date of March 8th:

The diphtheria has almost entirely disappeared from our midst.

Haines & Gosinger will occupy the store vacated by Murphy and Crossman on State street.

Gov. A. C. Gibbs and Sam R. Irwin, of your city, are registered at the Chemeketa Hotel.

Hoag E. Akin, formerly of the Salem postoffice, has returned to his Eastern home in Johnsville, N. Y.

Judge Watson and wife returned from San Francisco on the last steamer, and are stopping at the Chemeketa hotel.

F. H. Gilfry, Esq., private secretary to Gov. Grover during his term of office, will at once commence the practice of law in this city.

Alonzo Gesner's surveying party started yesterday for the wilds of Eastern Oregon, intent on bringing order out of chaos therein.

The weather in this section of the country is inclined to be moist, apparently making up for the lovely weather of the month just closed.

The blue glass sensation has just made its appearance in our midst, and Salemites are discussing the merits of Pleasant's theory pro and con.

We learn that the residence of W. Q. Adams was burglarized a few days since, the light-fingered gentry getting away with a liberal haul of silver plate.

The Republican jollification of Monday evening last consisted only of a salute and a brilliant display of fireworks from the roof of our county court house.

Politicians are already figuring on the State election of 1878, and have commenced laying their wires in this county to manipulate matters to serve their own purposes.

The State printers have closed their labors, and departed from our midst. "Matt" provided them with a champagne supper at the Chemeketa hotel on Monday evening last.

We hear numerous inquiries regarding the probabilities of the Tennessee Jubilee Singers visiting Salem, and feel assured they would receive a cordial welcome should they conclude to do so.

The ladies of the Congregational Church are making arrangements for an entertainment to be given at Reed's Opera House on the evening of March 23, which promises to be very pleasant.

J. E. Boynton, Esq., has we learn been tendered and accepted a responsible situation in Ladd & Tilton's banking house, of your city, and is now closing up his business here preparatory to removing soon.

Among the passengers on the outgoing steamer for San Francisco are the following Salem merchants: A. B. Crossman, E. N. Gillingham, Warner Breyman, L. Meyer, J. W. Weatherford and J. M. Haines.

The remains of Harry Bear arrived here on the express train this morning. They were met at the depot by a concourse of friends and at once conveyed to their last resting place in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

Hon. R. W. Wilson, formerly of this city, but more recently a citizen of Tillamook county, died there some time during the last week. He represented that county in the lower house of the Legislature of 1874, and was considered a good man by all who knew him.

Joseph Hoyt's health continues to improve. W. W. Martin, the well known jeweler of this city, has just put the finishing touch on the elegant gold headed cane presented to Hon. A. J. Dufur, centennial commissioner, by his friends in this city. It is a superb affair, manufactured entirely in Oregon products and costing in the neighborhood of seventy-five dollars.

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians or sold by druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted, can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that use it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The Treaty of Paris.

LONDON, March 8.—The Times to-day modifies the opinion about surrendering the treaty of Paris, and argues that treaties are only coexistent with the conditions under which they are framed. Lord Derby denies the treaty obligation of the powers to defend Turkey, or their right to defend her integrity and independence, or that of France, Germany, Italy, or Russia herself, exists without the sanction of that solemn treaty. But Lord Derby has declared Turkey cannot expect help from England; thus the final result of the treaty of Paris is the superfluous affirmation of a right which we do not intend to use.

Answer to the Russian Circular.

LONDON, March 7.—A Times' dispatch from Vienna says it seems the formula for an answer to the Russian circular has been found and that it is one to which all the powers can agree, so that their answers will be identical in essence if not in form. It is far from containing anything which might induce Russia to consider the harmony which existed at the conference is at an end, and thus inducing her to take an independent course. The answer is a warm European recognition of all the efforts and sacrifices made by Russia, for the Christians in Turkey. If these efforts have not quite had the desired effect, the powers seem to be willing to take their share of the ill success of the conference, so there is no reason for Russia to consider her dignity more compromised than the rest of Europe. It will be pointed out, despite the failure of the conference, that its efforts have not been fruitless. There is peace with Servia, and it may be hoped with Montenegro also. The Porte has recognized the necessity of the reforms advocated by the powers, and has been aroused from his lethargy.

The lion's share of these successes is to be awarded to Russia in the answer of the powers, so that Russia will be able to point to the recognition of her success by Europe to obviate domestic pressure. How far this satisfaction, coupled as it will be with the refusal to take any further steps, will go to make Russia withdraw seems very doubtful, but it is hoped that it will serve as a thread for future negotiations, with which Gen. Ignatieff's tour is doubtless connected.

LONDON, March 8.—In the House of commons this afternoon Under Secretary of the foreign department said England as yet had sent no reply to the Russian note. The reply was intended to have been sent last week, but owing to Russia's request to await further communication was deferred. The further communication is not yet received.

Number of Killed and Wounded.

The News' special from Pesth reports, according to the official statement of the Servian war minister, the Servians lost 8,000 killed and 20,000 wounded during the late war.

Mobilization.

VIENNA, March 8.—It is stated in military circles that the measures announced for the formation of a new Russian corps will be equivalent to the mobilization of the whole country, except Finland.

Threatens to Resign.

The Roumanian minister threatens to resign, if the Porte any longer hesitates to declare that Roumania is not regarded by Midhat Pasha's constitution as an integral part of the Turkish Empire.

Cabinet Crisis in Greece.

ATHENS, March 8.—The ministry has resigned in consequence of a vote of censure passed upon it by the chamber for granting illegal pension. The King summoned M. Ededgers to form a new cabinet at Croydon.

Russian Views.

VIENNA, March 8.—The Political Correspondence publishes a letter from St. Petersburg stating that Prince Gortschakoff has instructed Count Shouvaloff to urge the British cabinet to reply to the Russian circulars. Count Schouvaloff is simultaneously instructed to explain Russian views as follows: Either of the powers, and especially England, to consider the treaty of 1856 as binding, notwithstanding the Porte's negation of the decisions of the conference, or Russia will regard the Porte's right derived from the treaty as annulled. In the first case Russia limits the powers which must co-operate to bring about the Porte's complete acceptance of the resolution in the original form, and thus every means be afforded Russia of avoiding warlike complications. If, however, the signatory powers still remain inactive, Russia will consider they renounce insisting upon the obligations of Turkey and also the Turkish right, and Russia will accordingly declare the treaty of Paris as affecting herself, and reserve to herself the right of independent action. Similar instructions have been sent the Russian ambassadors at Vienna, Berlin, Paris and Rome.

Turkish Determination.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 7.—In the face of steps to modify the attitude which it assumed at the conference, the Ottoman government firmly maintains its determination to make no concession which will directly or indirectly interfere with its integrity and independence, but carry out of its own accord the reforms throughout the Empire that the Powers demanded for certain provinces. It is authoritatively stated that the Porte will go to war rather than submit indefinitely to Russia.

England Charged with the Responsibility.

LONDON, March 7.—The Times' dispatch from Rome says the Russian diplomats there state that General Ignatieff won't visit London because Lord Beaconsfield has intimated his presence would embarrass the government. The Russian telegraphic agency declares that the responsibility for war, in case it should break out between Turkey and Russia, would rest with the British cabinet, whose contradiction and tenacity would precipitate it. Russia is again firm and moderate, relying on the half million soldiers concentrated on the southern frontier. Her sole aim is the well guaranteed amelioration of the fate of the Turkish Christians, and this object must be attained. Russia will discuss with calmness and good will all combinations which may appear calculated to conduce to this end, this desire having nothing contrary to the views of Europe and its wishes being unanimous, a pacific result may be hoped for. Prince Milan answering the note of Prince Nicholas about breaking the treaty, excuses himself on the plea of impervious necessity.

Renovation, not Prostration.

Did any enfeebled human being ever become strong under the operation of powerful cathartics or salivants? It is sometimes necessary to regulate the bowels, but that can not be done by active purgation, which exhausts the vital forces and serves no good purpose whatever. The only true way to promote health and vigor, which are essential to regularity of the organic functions, is to invigorate, discipline and purify the system at the same time. The extraordinary efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in cases of debility or irregularity of the organs of digestion, assimilation, secretion and discharge, is universally admitted. Appetite, good digestion, a regular habit of body, active circulation of the blood, and purity of all the animal fluids are induced by this superb tonic and corrective. It has no equal, moreover, as a preventive of chills and fever and other types of malarial disease. To emigrants and travelers it is particularly serviceable as a medical safeguard.

There are probably a hundred or more persons in this and neighboring towns, who daily suffer from the distressing effects of kidney troubles, who do not know that Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is almost a certain cure. In severe cases, great relief may be obtained, if not a perfect cure.

We notice that the Agricultural papers all over the country recommend the use of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders.—Exchange.

Farmers and others in this section having known and appreciated the advantage of these powders over all others.

LYON'S KATHAIRON makes beautiful, glossy, luxuriant hair; prevents its falling out or turning gray. It has stood the test of 40 years. Is charmingly perfumed, and has no rival.

HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM preserves and restores the complexion; removes freckles, tan and sallowness; makes the skin soft, white and delicate. Its application cannot be detected.

Admitted to Bail.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—In the case of James Kellogg the examination was continued till March 28th, and the prisoner admitted to bail in the sum of $6,000, it not appearing he had received any portion of the amount obtained on the forged checks.

Failed to Agree.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—In the case of Frederick Mariott, Jr., on trial for libeling Frederick Clay, the jury this evening disagreed, standing nine for conviction and three for acquittal.

A dispatch to Capt. Lees from New York says a writ of habeas corpus has been applied for in the case of Blacklock, the absconding president of the Gulf of California Oyster Canning Company. Detective Coffey will leave for New York to-morrow with a requisition for the prisoner.

Citizens living in the vicinity of Mission creek held a meeting this evening and adopted resolutions calling for prompt action in filling up and reclaiming the creek and adjacent low lands, which have proved a fruitful source of miasma, disease and death.

A People's Party.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—The general current of talk in political circles here seems to indicate the probability of the formation of a people's party for the coming municipal campaign. A large portion of the Democracy, including the Southern wing of the party, declared an intention of being no longer governed by the Brady and Mannix crowd, and it is deemed likely they will welcome the proposition for coalition with the more moderate Republicans and the formation of a municipal ticket that will take the government from the hands of professional politicians and give it to the control of the taxpayers' interests. There is no intention manifested to carry the movement into the legislative fight, but to leave that for settlement on party principles.

The Illegal Voters.

The evening papers print a list of 3,227 names, alleged in the report of the finance committee of the board of supervisors to have cast illegal votes at the recent general election in this city; 1,966 are foreigners—1,005 being Irish, 309 Germans, 117 English, the others being variously distributed as to nationality. Casual examination of the list shows the names of many prominent citizens and old residents of all walks of life, whose right to suffrage has been unquestioned for years, including both native born and naturalized citizens. The county clerk himself figures in the list; also prominent members of the Democratic State central committee. The work has evidently been very carelessly performed, and the list will probably be largely reduced on close criticism.

The more the recently published list of fraudulent votes is canvassed the more disgust it seems to inspire. Every other man you meet is mad about it or knows some one that is. An excited individual who has been voting for the last 15 years, this evening started down town with the deliberate intention to whip the whole force of the Bulletin and Post for publishing the list, but finally concluded to expend his rage on those who were responsible for making it up. A great many others are in a similar state of mind, and every one seems to know of two or three names that ought to be taken off at once. Reasoning from this analogy it seems probable that at least one third of the list will be knocked off. There is considerable feeling manifested at the evident want of care with which the parties having the matter in charge have conducted it.

Sale of Silver.

The Nevada Bank has closed a sale of 1,000,000 ounces of fine silver to the government, at terms withheld.

Grand Army Entertainment.

SACRAMENTO, March 7.—The inaugural entertainment given to-night by the Grand Army of the Republic was a great success. It was eminently patriotic and wholly non-partisan. The oration was by Hon. Henry Edgerton, and was one of the most dispassionate and patriotic of speeches, being applauded alike by Democrats and Republicans. No part of the long programme of exercises was in the slightest degree of a character to awaken partisan feeling. A grand ball closed the entertainment, which has done much to promote cordial good feeling among men of both parties here.

A north wind, quite drying, prevailed here to-day.

The Big Trot.

Sporting men arrived in numbers to-day, and the betting is heavy on Occident and Bodine. The race is to come off on Friday. At present pool selling favors Occident slightly.

Santa Barbara Items.

SANTA BARBARA, March 7.—The wind has been blowing all around the compass for the last two days, most of the time heavily. No signs of rain. A gentleman from the north of the county, who came down yesterday, says stock men are bound to lose most of their cattle. Farmers, he thinks, will manage to scrape through with little loss, save their crops and seed already put in.

There was a general jollification last evening by the Republicans on the inauguration of Hayes. Among the resolutions passed was one to keep up the organization of the Hayes and Wheeler Club, to act in the coming campaign with the State and county Republican central committees. The officers of the old club were retained for the new organization.

Southern Pacific Railroad.

SAN DIEGO, March 8.—A Union special correspondent at Yuma telegraphs to-day: A surveying party under William Hord Esq., assistant Chief Engineer of the Southern Pacific Railroad to-day broke camp, established here three months ago, and proceeded along the south side of the Gila. Mr. Hord, in conversation this morning, assured me there was no doubt of the road coming to Yuma, but on which of the three or four choice lines he could not say, nor will it be known till the Board of Directors choose and make it public. Work is steadily progressing; track layers reached a point 61 miles from here yesterday, and to-day the terminal station is to be moved to Castle Rock. Some heavy work is retarding rapid progress for the past month, and more will be encountered before reaching the river, so that the completion of the road to this point need not be looked for before the last of April.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Lost—The Urso Troupe.

VICTORIA, (B. C.), March 8.—Wm. Marsh, an old resident, got lost in the woods near town a night or two ago and died from exposure yesterday.

The Urso company start south to-morrow after a successful concert season.

The latest miracle is Ruth Harris (colored) of Washington; she has been dumb for eight years. She committed some dreadful act, and when accused of it called upon her Creator to strike her dumb if she did not speak the truth. She was struck dumb and never spoke again until one night last week, when she had a dream. Her mother—who died about a year ago—appeared unto her in the watches of the night, and told her that her powers of speech would return to her. Awaking from her dream, she found that her speech had indeed returned. Rejoicing at the discovery, she turned over in bed, touched her husband's shoulder, and when he was aroused, remarked: "What do you think?" He thought the world was at an end, and waited for no explanation. Bouncing out of bed he ran into the street and aroused the neighbors. They returned with him, and found that Ruth could really talk again. So runs the tale. Possibly the miracle vein is being overworked just now.

The Maryland Academy of Science has discovered something more dreadful than the North Carolina flesh shower. Namely, spring tails, or more poetically, snow bugs, or, more scientifically, produræ. In a paper recently read before the Academy, Dr. Morris describes a shower of the aforesaid. The woods in Baltimore county were full of them. The insect has six legs, four to stand on and two to jump with; his eyes have sixteen facets, and he has four jointed antennæ; the leaping apparatus is coiled like a spring; when he uncoils i he leaps to an amazing distance. They are sometimes found "crowded together in heaps like piles of gunpowder. When disturbed they leap and disperse, but soon gather again in groups."

The quiet condition in financial and mercantile circles noticed for several weeks past is not changed in its most important features. There are some calls for monetary aid in local improvements and enterprises, and the inquiry for funds to carry forward the fishing business is also being somewhat augmented. But, altogether, the demand is not regarded as heavy for the season, and is readily met by the several banks without any noticeable diminution in the amount of available funds at hand. Outside parties are also offering very considerable sums at the usual rates. But few borrowers, comparatively, are in the market, except for the purposes mentioned.

From San Francisco advices by mail are to the effect that the money supply is abundant, and as a great deal under the same circumstances which existed in former seasons would have been put into stock speculations, is now upon the market seeking other safer opportunities for investment. The general outlook for financial matters on the Pacific is somewhat strongly indicative of a reduction of rates all along the line.

In trade matters there are but few new features to note. Receipts of general merchandise are large and many of our wholesale and jobbing houses are already displaying very full stocks of goods suitable to the spring trade. The price lists of leading houses show a reduction on several leading articles among staple goods. Groceries and boots and shoes, however, are likely to open at somewhat higher figures than ruled when last spring's business began.

Domestic Produce.

In the line of domestic products receipts and prices show some decline during the past week. The wheat surplus which can be reached from the lines of transportation in this valley is undoubtedly small, and when the vessels now at hand have loaded, it is estimated that but little more will be shipped before harvest. There are yet probably 4,000 or 5,000 tons east of the mountains which will not be needed for local consumption. Exporters quote to-day at $1 85@1 87½, while a good round lot which could be placed at tide water readily would command an advance.

Flour is in fair demand for the local trade, and some call for shipment, with only moderate receipts. Oats are in fair request, with light receipts, but prices show a material decline. In other products there is nothing calling for comment, the market being quiet and steady at our quotations.

Also, Washington Territory, giving a minute description of its lands and facilities for settlement, land law, climate, resources, etc., (second edition just published). Have cultivated the soil in various parts of California, Oregon and in Washington Territory. The principal part of the past seven years spent in exploring and examining the same, at great expense of time, labor and money. All the principal parts revisited within the past twelve months. This, together with a residence and experience of over thirty years on this coast, has given me a very thorough practical knowledge of the whole country. Special information and advice given, such as: our government lands, best bodies of, where found, quality of soil, what best adapted for, facilities for market, climate, health, etc. Our native forest timber, where found in their greatest perfection, adaptation to the mechanical arts, etc. Investments, stock raising, dairying, business openings, etc., together with advantages and disadvantages of any given section. No interests to subserve, other than to give correct and reliable information, and receive a moderate compensation for my labor.
